Nation Counts 109 Dead So Far In Holiday Accidents

FEW MISHAPS REPORTED IN CITY, COUNTY

Mansfield Celebrates First Half of Long Weekend in Safety.

With the two-day Labor day holiday at the half-way mark, the Mansfield area last night had escaped without a major traffic accident while violent deaths in the nation had climbed to 109, including 94 in traffic. Seven traffic fatalities were reported in Ohio.

Police and state highway patrolmen said late last night they had reports of a few minor accidents, but no injuries were reported.

Mansfielders, kept indoors yesterday by a chilly wind and light rain during the afternoon, hoped for better weather today. The weatherman boosted their hopes, too. He promised clear and cool for today—possibly too cool for swimming, but ideal for outdoor games and picnicking.

The city is expected to be quiet today, with no observance planned. Public offices and business places will be closed with only a few restaurants and filling stations remaining open to serve vacationists.

Labor Hits Congress.

On the national scene, the AFL and CIO criticized the 79th congress in Labor Day statements today, asserting it had flunked in important social legislation.

The AFL said congress had even made "hostile moves" against labor and the CIO declared it had extended favors to profiteers.

The messages by the union chiefs — CIO's Philip Murray and AFL's William Green — commemorated the holiday but leveled heavy fire at the law-makers. The year brought "little progress" on the legislative front, said Green Congress failed in its responsibilities. Murray asserted

From a member of the congress itself, Senator James M. Mead (D-NY), regarded as a possible candidate for governor of New York, came the holiday statement that he could not "be too proud of the contributions of the national legislature in dealing with the postwar period."

Reconversion Director John R. Steelman declared in a statement that labor peace is vital "during the critical months ahead, while production is catching up to demand." He urged labor and management to help maintain it.

We are threatened with "at least a measure of inflation," Steelman said, because of insufficient goods to buy.

Industrial production is at an all time high "but it is still not nearly high enough," Steelman said. "Crops were never so great, but we still need more food, both at home and abroad."

Secretary of War Patterson lauded "the magnificent contribution made by labor" to victory. During the war "a close mutual friendship and understanding" grew up between the army and labor which the war department is determined to maintain, he said in a statement.

Gets His Job, But He Has No Home

(In the hope Mansfield can find housing for some of the 400 veterans needing homes, the News-Journal is presenting daily one typical case.)

John P. Maginness has been searching since March for the home he lost as the result of two years service with the navy in the Solomons.

Before he entered the service Maginness and his family were happily settled in Mansfield. While he was away, his family went to Pittsburgh, Pa., so they wouldn't be alone.

Upon separation from the service Maginness found his old job waiting for him as promised. But there had been no promise about a home. So his family wait and wonder at "what price service," while Maginness searches.

"We'll drive 10 or 15 miles for a place to call our own," Maginness said.

If you can help restore a home lost through no fault of his own Maginness and the Veterans' Information center (1730-6) will be very happy.

THE MANSFIELD LABORER, who helped to forge the tools of victory in the greatest production record ever met, has turned from the task of war production to peacetime production in the year's time since the end of the war. Today is his day to enjoy a well-earned rest. Symbolic of those workers who have made the transition to peace by this Labor day are the Mansfielders shown above. At left, Allen Barrett, proprietor of the Victory Welding shop on North Mulberry street, is shown fusing two pieces of metal with his welder. Ross Heuberger of Shelby, R. D. 1, is shown at right, standing at the Westinghouse laundromat production line, performing an assembly line operation. Heuberger is shown attaching a sealed-in-steel transmission unit to an outside spinner tub.

CITY, COUNTY SCHOOLS CALL BACK 13,000

Area Pupils Starting Classes Tomorrow, Mansfield Pupils Due in Wednesday.

Mansfield and Richland county school bells will ring tomorrow and Wednesday for nearly 13,000 boys and girls and a few older folk who will return to complete the courses that were interrupted by their military service

Three new superintendents will begin their administrative duties when Richland county and St Peter's parochial schools open tomorrow, most of them for a half day session.

They are, Randell Hartley, of Buffalo, who succeeds C. H. Ratcliff at Shiloh; Howard L. Hofacre, who returned from military service to be advanced from the principal's post to the superintendency of the Lexington schools and W. S. Barger, Lucas, who shifted from that school's vocational agriculture post. Hofacre succeeds M. E Shank, while Barger follows J E. McCollough who became principal of Shelby high school Ratcliff moved to Savannah

Only Lexington will have a full day of school tomorrow

Mansfield schools, many of them redecorated and remodeled, will open Wednesday. Robert O. Hartmann, who came from Bellville to head Newman school, is the only new principal in the city. He succeeds Jesse Beer who will devote his full time to the school's new guidance department.

Most school officials said they expected increased enrollment figures, owing, in part, to the return of servicemen. Although no statistics were available concerning the number of GI's who will enroll, almost every high school superintendent reported they ex-

STORES ADOPT NEW SCHEDULES

Operating Hours to Present Confusing Picture For City's Shoppers.

Mansfielders will find a confusing schedule of store hours when they go shopping tomorrow.

A number of stores announced over the weekend they will remain open Wednesdays, beginning this week, and adopt a 40-hour week. They will open at 9:15 a. m. and close at 5:30 p. m., daily, Monday through Saturday.

Others will be open from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., Tuesday through Friday, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., Monday, and from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Saturday.

Hardware and paint stores, however, will open at 8 a. m., and close at 5 p. m., daily except Wednesday when most of them will close at noon. A few will be closed all day Wednesday as in the past.

By opening at 8 a. m., the hardware and paint dealers said they would be better able to serve their customers, many of whom must have supplies available early for construction and redecorating jobs.

Voters Swing To Royalists In Plebiscite

Russia Hurls Charges of 'Fascism', Claims U. S., Britain Dominate Government; Violence Sweeps Nation During Balloting.

ATHENS—(AP)—The flow of official returns from the Sunday plebiscite indicated today that the Greeks had voted overwhelmingly to return King George II to the throne. Scattered violence marked the election.

Acting Premier Stylianos Gonatas announced at a news conference that tabulations showed 70 per cent of the votes were for the return of the exiled monarch and that there was no longer any question as to the Greek regime.

"The Greek people have risen to the occasion during critical moments of our fatherland and have justified absolutely the forecast of the government that free and genuine elections would be held," he said.

The royalist-dominated Greek government, assailed by the Soviet Union as "Fascist" and as being under the influence of the British and Americans, had been confident for days that the voters would approve the return of the 56-year-old monarch to his throne.

(A Moscow broadcast today said the plebiscite was held "under Fascist royalist terror and with foreign troops in the country." British troops are on occupation duty there. The U. S. navy announced in Naples Saturday that the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, putting in the port of Athens Thursday, will send 123 airplanes over the Greek capital in an air show which had been asked for by the Greek government.)

Eighteen deaths were reported to have occurred in election violence since Saturday morning.

Complete official returns for Athens gave 62.5 per cent for the king, and Salonika also was reported to have given the monarchy 62 per cent majority.

* * *

Claim Landslide.

Unofficial sources who had access to returns said that some sections cast more than 90 per cent of their ballots for the king.

Returns from the first several hundred precincts operating, mostly in Athens, showed that approximately 25 per cent of the electorate cast blank ballots, which counted for the republic and were considered a measure of Communist strength.

The ministry of public order announced that seven persons described as bandits had been killed in a clash south of Salonika

Four alleged bandits were killed in an attack on a gendarmerie station near Kozani, it said, and Communist bands were repulsed in an unsuccessful attempt to prevent voting in Larissa and Mitsi.

Each voter was given two ballots—one marked for the king and the other blank A person opposing the monarchy had the choice of either casting the ballot blank or for a "republic." All such ballots whether marked or not — counted for the republic, however.

Of the first 4,586 votes tabulated against the monarchy, 2,489 were blank This was regarded as a show of Communist strength, since the Communist party had ordered its supporters to cast unmarked blanks

(The Swiss radio heard in London by Exchange Telegraph, said Greek Premier Constantin Tsaldaris had declared in Paris, where he is attending the peace conference, that he was ready to hand his resignation to King George to prove his willingness to contribute to the unity of all Greek parties.)

Taking Throne Seems To Be Habit Forming

LONDON —(AP)— King George II called back from exile by his countrymen, is no newcomer to the Greek throne.

It will be the third time since 1923 that George's fate has been put up to the Greek people. He lost in a plebiscite in 1923, but won another in 1935 which restored him to the throne after an army general's coup d'etat had overthrown the Greek republic.

King George II

King George, once-divorced and twice-exiled, fled from Greece in 1941 after the German invasion. George's grandfather, George I, was a Danish prince and brother of Britain's Queen Alexandria George I ascended the Grecian throne in 1863, and was assassinated in 1913 just before his 50th anniversary of rule.

Constantine, his son, succeeded him but his pro-Germanism—unexplained by his marriage to Kaiser Wilhelm's sister—conflicted with the ardent pro-allied feelings of the Greek people. Constantine was forced to abdicate Constantine's eldest son, the present George II, was passed by too because of his pro-German feelings, and George's younger brother, Alexander, ascended the throne Greece joined the first World war on the allied side

In 1920, Alexander was bitten by a tame monkey and died Constantine was called back from exile.

Constantine, always unpopular had to abdicate again and was succeeded by George II in September, 1922. He faced his first plebiscite in April, 1923, and lost

A republic was proclaimed, lasting 12 years until Gen Klondylis staged a coup d'etat and had himself proclaimed regent He imposed martial law and organized another plebiscite in which George received 98 per cent of the vote

In April, 1936, Gen. John Metaxas, whom Greece had made premier, carried through a new coup with the king's consent and approval, abolished the constitution and established a dictatorship

A bitter struggle between Republican forces, largely Leftist, and Royalists has continued since the war's end.

37 KILLED IN BOMBAY RIOTS

Army Troops Join Police to Quell Spread of Disorder Through India.

BOMBAY —(AP)— Thirty-seven persons were killed and 158 were injured yesterday in rioting which flared through the heart of Bombay, but the city was "completely under control" at midnight, said Police Commissioner A C Wilson. Additional army troops joined police in picket duty

The riots spread through the center of Bombay on the eve of inauguration of the first all-Indian government headed by the congress party president, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru.

Disorders broke out earlier in Quetta, Baluchistan, 850 miles northwest of Bombay, in which four persons were killed. In the first case of rioting in Baluchistan under British rule, mobs burned and looted stores Saturday night.

The Quetta flare-up originated outside the Hindu Religious Institute where an annual anniversary celebration was in progress. What incident touched off the riot was not determined.

The toll in the rioting, sparked by Hindu-Moslem bitterness, was announced officially by police. Police and military forces last night had brought the situation under apparent control with a swiftly imposed curfew.

The outbursts coincided with the first appearance of black flags which the Moslem league ordered Moslems to fly tomorrow in protest against the predominantly Hindu interim government in which the league refused to participate.

Angry mobs formed in 20 or more places, seemingly simultaneously.

British troop reinforcements were poured into Bombay's trouble areas, and throughout this tense land extraordinary precautions were taken in population centers. The reinforced military aided expanded police forces in vigilant patrols.

Fears Confusion Over Young Overs

COUNCIL BLUFFS Ia —(AP)— Teacher will have a double tongue-twister on her hands every day when the five-year-old Over twins of Council Bluffs start to school this week.

That they dress alike and look alike is bad enough, but their names are the crowning blow. One —he of the darker hair—is Oscar Oliver Over, and his blond brother is Oliver Oscar Over. Their father is Oliver Oscar Over, sr., a Council Bluffs attorney, and the boys' paternal grandfather was the late Oscar Oliver Over.

City Garbage-Ash Fee Lower Than Average

N-J Reveals Towns of Comparable Size Charge 15 to 65 Cents More Per Month.

By JOHN MINE

Mansfield's 60-cents-a-month garbage-ash collection fee is lower than that of four other Ohio cities of comparable size and about equals that of one other city, a survey, completed last night by the News-Journal, shows.

East Cleveland's monthly fee about equals that of Mansfield, while Warren's, Middletown's, Newark's and Steubenville's charges are from 15 to 65 cents higher per month.

The survey was completed as city council prepares to formally receive a recommendation tomorrow from Mayor Roy W. Vaughn to boost the city's refuse collection fee.

Based on a report prepared by Sanitation Supt. Al Strachan, Vaughn will recommend that the collection fee be raised in order to put the sanitation department on a self-sustaining basis and to improve service.

Yearly collection fee here is $7.20 while Strachan's survey shows that it costs the city about $10.78 to collect garbage and refuse from each of its 7,500 customers

The News-Journal survey shows

TROOPS PATROL RIO DE JANEIRO

Brazil Struggles in Grip of Crisis; Clamps Martial Law on Capital.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP) -Martial law was clamped down Sunday on this traditionally gay city after two days of disastrous rioting, as Brazil struggled in the grip of one of the worst economic and political crises in all her history.

The justice ministry, proclaiming martial law, placed Gen. Zenobio Dacosta in charge of public order and repeated its warning that the army would use force to suppress any new eruption.

Troops patrolled the city to guard against any recurrence of the rioting, in which one person was killed, 100 were injured and 500 were jailed.

Authorities announced that stores would be reopened today, under protection of the army.

Trifino Correia, Communist deputy who was among Communists arrested during the rioting, was free following the demand of congress for his release and for a pledge of respect from the police for parliamentary immunity.

President Eurico Gaspar Dutra replied to the demands by assuring congress, holding Sunday sessions in efforts to complete work on the new constitution by Sept. 7, that he wished them to continue their work

Losses suffered by the Brazilian merchant marine during the war, along with lack of rail and highway transportation, caused an accumulation of food stocks in the productive states of South and North Brazil and provoked scarcities in the big cities, which were aggravated by the spiraling prices and the black market.

ARREST REBELS

MANILA—(AP)—The Philippines government began wholesale arrests of rebellious peasant leaders today and opened up with artillery against their followers defying its edict to disarm.

BLAST VICTIM'S CONDITION POOR

Mrs. Lillian Perry Fights For Life; Chief Places Blame For Explosion.

The condition of Mrs. Lillian Perry, 22, one of five persons injured in Saturday night's gas explosion which shattered a five-room house at 11 Shelby avenue, was described as critical by attendants at General hospital last night. Mrs. Perry suffered first, second and third degree burns on her face, arms and back.

Meanwhile, Fire Chief L. J. Steele, investiagting the cause of the blast with an Ohio Fuel Gas company serviceman, attributed the explosion to "faulty installation" of a new gas range in the kitchen of Mr. and Mrs. William Gee, owners.

Steel said that in connecting up the new stove for his tenants, Robert Perry had apparently hit a burner to test it, unknowingly leaving a three-quarter inch pipe end unplugged after the stove had been connected to the gas line

Steele estimated that the burner had been lit about 20 minutes before enough gas escaped from the unplugged opening to fill the room from the ceiling downward until it reached the flame where it was ignited

The conditions of Robert Perry and his wife, Marie, were listed as "fair" and "fauk good" by hospital personnel last night Mrs William Gee was also reported in "fairly good" condition

Arnold Perry brother of Robert, was treated for burns on both hands and released

FOUR ESCAPE

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Four prisoners—one apparently wounded—escaped Sunday from Fort Hayes, former Fifth Service Command headquarters, by overpowering an armed guard, who freed himself in time to fire one shot. One escaper later returned.

Miss Zellner, Teacher In City Schools, Dies

Miss Hazel K. Zellner, 61, teacher in Mansfield public schools for many years, died Sunday morning at General hospital after a year's illness.

An elementary school-instructor, Miss Zellner taught hundreds of boys and girls who have remembered her friendliness and helpfulness as they grew up Failing health forced her to retire last year. She entered the hospital several days ago.

Besides her teaching, Miss Zellner was active in civic, church and political affairs and at the time of her death was treasurer of the Federation of Democratic Women of Ohio.

She was born in Mansfield, June 8, 1885, and was a daughter of George W and Mary Jane Henry Zellner, pioneer residents of the city. She was a graduate of Mansfield high school, attended

WINS JET RACE

P-80 Averages 578.36 Miles An Hour in Two Runs.

CLEVELAND - (AP)— Lt. William J Reilly of San Francisco, a member of the first fighter group stationed at March Field, Calif., averaged 578.36 miles an hour yesterday in two runs over a measured 1,500-meter stationary course in an army air force P-80 jet propelled fighter.

It was by far the fastest speed ever demonstrated in competition before an air race crowd, but it fell short of the world record speed of 606 miles an hour held by the British meteor.

Find Victim of Noose, Bullet

LISBON — (AP) — James N. Metts, 60, of Lisbon route 1, who had been missing a week, was found Saturday night hanging from a fruit tree with a bullet wound in the head.

Columbiana county Coroner Ernest Strugis theorized that Metts first climbed into the tree, slipped the noose over his head and then shot himself with a .32 caliber revolver. The revolver was found at the base of the tree.

URGES PEACE

Eisenhower Voices Plea For World 'Neighborliness.'

LINCOLN, Neb —(AP)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower pleaded earnestly Sunday for world "neighborliness," asserting that "the people of no nation want a global war."

Without mentioning any nation by name but in apparent reference to Russia and her allies, he added that "two nations, just as two people, cannot be friends if only one is so disposed."

The comment was made in connection with a reference to the inability of the World War II victors to agree on many "important questions."

LEARNING TO LIVE

All of us must learn to live—
What to take and what to give.
—Peter Rabbit.

Under a tangle of bushes and brambles in the Old Pasture squatted a small Rabbit, Little Wobblenose. For a long time he didn't move. He was afraid to move. Something inside him told him that sitting still was the wisest thing to do; that unfriendly eyes were less likely to see him sitting still than moving. He was very young to be out all alone in the Great World, but its the way to all rabbits to start out for themselves when very young.

He was very young to be out alone in the Great World.

For the first few days nothing bad had happened to him. He had had no great frights. No unfriendly eyes had happened to see him. He had been lucky, but he didn't know that. He had wandered about as and where he pleased. There was no one to tell him that he should do this or shouldn't do that. He had found out for himself that when he was hungry there was always grass right at hand, and that if he looked around a little he could find sweet clover and other green things good to eat. Always there were places where he could doze and rest with the comfortable feeling of being safe. It was wonderful to be out in the Great World. Living in it was simple and easy.

Then he had wandered into Farmer Brown's garden. Such good things to eat! The Great World became a more wonderful place than ever. Then without warning it had become a terrible place. He still didn't know what had happened. Not knowing made it seem all the worse. He had been caught in a box trap, brought here to the Old Pasture by Farmer Brown's boy and set free under these brambles and briars where no hungry enemies would be likely to see him or try to get him if they did.

He sat still long after Farmer Brown's boy had left. It was very quiet and peaceful there. Such sounds as he heard seemed to come from far away. Little by little he felt better, less and less frightened. "I wish I knew what happened," he kept thinking. "If I knew perhaps I could keep it from happening again. I guess I don't know as much as I thought I did. I guess there are some things I still have to learn."

That was a good guess. He had a great many things to learn. Indeed, he had almost everything to learn about living and how to do it. He had made a good beginning. He didn't know that. He had learned the most important first lesson—that he didn't already know much of anything. After a while he became hungry. Still afraid, he sat there growing hungrier and hungrier and for the first time in his short life wondering where he could get something to eat. On the Green Meadows he had been always in the midst of food. Now he must go look for it.

He crept to the entrance to the little path that led in under the brambles and bushes. For a time he sat there looking out. This was a very different place from the Green Meadows or Farmer Brown's garden or even the dear Old Briarpatch. There were bushes growing separately and in clumps. There were rocks with bushes around them and vines partly hiding them. There were small open spaces between them and large open spaces covered with short grass. Winding in and out around the rocks and the bushes and across the open spaces were paths made by Farmer Brown's cows.

He hopped out into one of these paths. He looked back at the friendly brambles. Anyway, that is how they looked to him. It would have surprised him to learn how unfriendly they looked to most other folks. For the first time he hesitated to go looking for something to eat. In the few days he had been out in the Great World he had gone where he pleased without thought. Now he suddenly was afraid to leave those friendly brambles. He would eat what he could find as near this safe place as possible. He wouldn't be fussy about his food.

"I better be safe and hungry than in danger with a full stomach," said he to himself as he ate coarse grass near at hand, grass he would have turned up his wobbly little nose at so short a time before. Between bites he sat up to look and listen, ready to dart back to safety at the least unfamiliar sound or movement. He was beginning to learn to live.

The next story: "Little Wobblenose Learns Fast."

Judge Permits Liquor Sale During Stark Fair.

CANTON—(AP)—Common Pleas Judge A. C. L. Barthelmeh has granted a temporary injunction restraining local enforcement of an 1885 state law prohibiting the sale of liquor within two miles of a county fair. The Stark county fair opens Monday and continues through Thursday. Restraint of enforcement was sought by operators of five cafes near the fairgrounds.

Judge Barthelmeh said it appeared the "public generally will not suffer" from restraint of enforcement, and that enforcement would "interfere arbitrarily with private business."

Year of Great Opportunities Ahead

THIS LABOR DAY ushers in a period of greatest opportunity—and greatest responsibility—that has ever been experienced by those to whom this day is dedicated—the millions of American men and women who, by the work of hand and brain, have been largely responsible for this country's advancement to its present eminence among the nations of the world . . . and to the exceptionally high standards of living that have thus been attained.

The past year, in the field of labor as well as in the national program of reconversion from war to peace, has been a trying one for all concerned, but it may now at least be hoped that experimentation, including trial and error, has provided a basis for sound judgment and better understanding which will make the coming year one of greater accomplishments than have yet been deemed possible.

Much will depend, however, on turning potentialities into realities, and to do this a way must be found to greatly increase industrial production, facilitate distribution, speed up housing, and eliminate the retarding elements which have slowed the reconversion process.

Many problems of employe-employer relations yet remain to be solved, but today's picture is a brighter one than it was a year ago and the mutual interests of all who contribute to the general prosperity appear to be more clearly seen by those who are in positions of leadership.

A year ago it was said in this space: "One of the great privileges of American citizenship, and the freedom which it accords, is the right to work, and to have unhampered choice of work which is congenial and to which each individual considers himself best suited."

As returned—and returning—veterans become readjusted to civilian tasks, that is a factor which bears repeating for emphasis, and one that should never be lost sight of as a part of the Constitutional guarantee of individual rights and privileges.

Today is a holiday. Tomorrow, and the days thereafter, will be WORKING days . . . with requirements for capable workers greater than the supply, and with so many things to be done that there can be no justification for idleness by anyone who is physically and mentally able to do some kind of work well.

Between now and next Labor day can be made the greatest, most productive and most prosperous year in American history. It remains for each of us to do our share in making it so.

Research In 'Pure Science' Urged

A NATIONAL science foundation, to be created by the government, is proposed by David Dietz, well-known science writer. He says that other great countries are spending huge sums for the advancement of study and research in pure science, while the United States as a nation is inclined to rest on previous achievements in applied science.

One example of the let-down in interest is the proposed closing of several telescopes in America's biggest astronomical laboratories because of lack of funds for operating them. During the war the government provided billions of dollars for research on such scientific subjects as radar and the atomic bomb, but this work was all based on previous findings in the realm of pure science.

It is time now to open new fields of research, and this can only be done by heavily endowed institutions. For many reasons, the endowments of established scientific schools have suffered a decline in value, and it is important that they be supplemented by government support, if no other source of funds is forthcoming. The work of research scientists, which often seems unproductive as it is being performed, has proven, again and again, to be of incalculable value to the nation later on.

Steel Farm Buildings May Be Next

A BARN in flames—struck by lightning—with the accompanying loss of grain or livestock or both, is a common result of a thunderstorm in the country. This hazard will be done away with if the modern farmer builds his barns and other buildings of steel.

The University of Wisconsin has made tests of steel farm buildings. After several years of use, the agriculture school issued a favorable report on their suitability for dairy farms and corn and livestock farms. They can be insulated against heat and cold and are expected to outlast wood. Smaller buildings, such as sheds, granaries, and milk houses can be prefabricated, but it will be more practical to weld the larger structures on the site itself. Sprayed with paint, the insides of these structures will be as sanitary as hospitals.

These will be wonderful barns, from a practical standpoint, but they will never have the atmosphere of the old wooden buildings, with their worn beams, uneven floors, wooden hooks for harness, and wooden ladders to sweet-smelling haylofts.

News Photographers To Gain Fame

NEWSPAPER photographers are at last to get recognition.

Brilliant reporters have been publicized, but photographers, strangely enough, seldom become famous. Now leaders in the profession are to have panels in a hall of fame to be established at Kent State university. Each year the outstanding news picture will be hung, and a special citation given to the photographer.

The idea grew out of the university's annual short course in photography, which has drawn hundreds of newspaper camera men to the campus.

Perhaps later the great newspaper photographers of the past may also receive credit. For instance, Mathew B. Brady, photographer extraordinary of Abraham Lincoln and the Civil war.

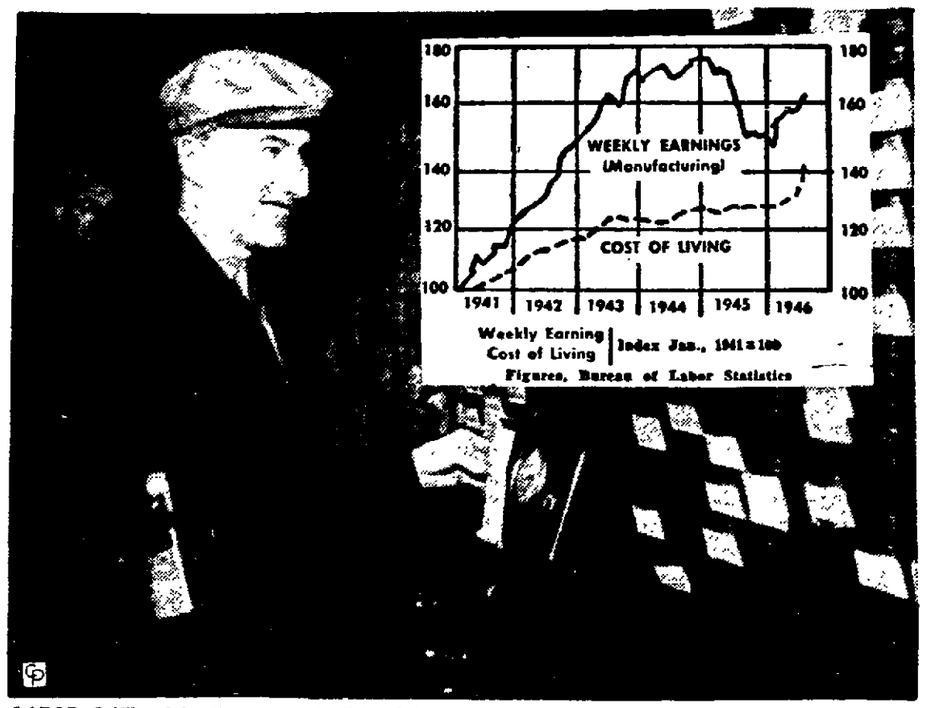
The War Assets Administration offers for sale 134,000 cook's aprons—which should come in right handy in the event of continuance of the shirt shortage.

Word comes from Berlin that "faded blue trousers" are standard attire for co-eds over there—and thus do American fashions spread to far-away places.

According to a statistician, the average husband has a larger vocabulary than the average wife—but the turnover is not nearly so great.

It's all relative, of course—so it may not be long until a $1,500 car will be called "low priced."

LABOR HAS GOOD REASON TO CELEBRATE TODAY



LABOR DAY celebrations are highlighted by the fact that today labor is getting its greatest spread of the nation's wealth and has managed, through the recent round of wage increases, to keep ahead of living costs by the comfortable margin indicated on chart.

Washington 'Police Lady' Finds Club-Teen Combats Delinquency

WASHINGTON — Something is being done, on a national basis, about the sweeping increase in juvenile delinquency, always an aftermath of war.

Behind the "Delinquency" meeting called in October here in Washington by the department of justice, is a new idea. Rather, a collection of new ideas and concepts from all parts of the country about the entire problem of wayward boys and girls.

It is told well by the No. 1 policewoman of Washington, D. C. To thousands of children in the nation's capital, Capt. Rhoda Milliken is "the police lady." She is a lady and looks it. She does not wear a uniform and if she carries a policeman's club, it must be hidden in her feminine handbag.

This "police lady" is not hard-boiled as a picnic egg, as might be expected, but she can be firm.

It takes firmness, with justice, to handle the more than seven thousand delinquency cases that come to the Woman's Bureau every year in our nation's capital.

As a beginning, Captain Milliken would stop the use of the words "juvenile delinquents."

"So many dire stories have been written and told about JD's that the idea of becoming a juvenile delinquent has become glamorized and desirable. Boys and girls are intrigued to become that awful thing their teachers and parents rant about. They even form juvenile delinquent clubs as a defiant gesture," said the policewoman.

She is often asked, "What other name can you call them?"

"Why call them anything?" is her quick retort, adding, "You don't call grown-ups 'adult delinquents.'" To her, they are merely boys and girls with special problems.

The town itself creates some of the problems. Washington is no exception. Not a factory town with a payroll of minors, the capital has the biggest industry in the world in the federal government itself.

During the war, errand boys and girls were paid as high as $1,600 a year, more money than maybe either parent had ever received.

Those parents asked for room and board money but when they tried to take more money the children rebelled. Some left home. Other 18-year-old lads, with new money in pocket, strutted around night clubs and beer joints.

Many delinquent cases come from a lack of definite program of activities to keep the youngster busy. They come from not findmg an answer when the high school boy or girl asks, "What can I do tonight? I have seen all the movies."

Policewoman Milliken has found two answers. One is exemplified in a public "hangout," the Club-Teen, just opened in Washington. It's a model of what could be set up in every town in the United States. A "drop-in" place where there are young books, young music and young people. At night there's always a dance. A soft drinks and ice cream counter is a good substitute for the corner drugstore. The Club-Teen belongs to them. Chaperones don't seem to chaperone. A council of parents finds special treats. Recently Radio Singer Lanny Ross appeared and sang his heart out for the youngsters. The autograph collectors were thrilled.

If Captain Milliken had her way about it, there would be a Club-Teen in every part of town in every city in the United States.

But to her, even a Club-Teen is no substitute for the neighborhood hangout run (not obviously) by the parents in the neighborhood—maybe in the big recreation room in one of the homes where jive music can be screeched and there is always something to do. It would be a place where boys and girls can have a good time together in the natural (and protective atmosphere.

The meeting in Washington in October will bring together the top-minds on the subject of juvenile delinquency.

Many delegations come to Washington, but none with a greater objective than "to make all of the country a better place for young people to live."

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

". . . And After It Opens The Pores and Lets Out the Dirt . . . . They Snap Shut With a Bang!!"

Listen World!

Never Underestimate a Weakling.

By ELSIE ROBINSON

IT'S A COMMON story and as old as life. He had been such a sweet baby, dimpling and cooing in his mother's arms—reaching out chubby hands toward a glittering world.

And at 20 he was still dimpling and cooing and reaching chubby hands toward anything he wished. And was usually getting what he wished.

No, he wasn't simple minded. He was just a weakling, mooching his way through life. Rather charming in his way. People liked him but rather contemptuously. They thought he didn't amount to much. They said he had no will power. Even when he took a job, nobody believed he'd make good.

Everyone was astounded when he grabbed all the cash in the store, slugged his boss and fled for the wide open spaces.

Then, when they investigated his record, they found he'd been scheming and cheating all along. He had taken a long time to plan the robbery — a slow, deliberate planning with plenty of determination in it — determination that would have put him in the upper income brackets if he'd applied it constructively instead of destructively.

Yet they had called him a weakling.

We often make that mistake and pay for it plenty. We under-estimate "weaklings." We see them everywhere. We see them in homes —shallow, selfish, petty little women dominating their husbands, ruining their children's lives. Or it's the reverse--weak, parasitic men hanging on to fine women, dragging them down, draining them of strength, hope and happiness.

Yes, weaklings are about the commonest sight in life and we, who pride ourselves on being strong and reliable, look at them with contempt. Or patronize them in pity. We allow them to play around, drawing on our sympathy because we think they are harmless, because we think there is no strength in them. But we are wrong.

As a matter of fact a weakling, generally has ten times as much will power as a solid citizen. But he uses that will power in a different way. He uses it as a professional beggar would use a phoney limp or an eyepatch.

The average weakling uses his weakness as a mask to get what he desires. And often has as much power and purpose in that desire as there is in a Joe Louis punch.

Never underestimate a weakling.

Never think that anyone is helpless because he seems old or crippled or stupid.

Give real sympathy where it's deserved, or even where it isn't, but never put your life into the hands of an unscrupulous schemer under the delusion that he's harmless.

Many a home is being wrecked today by domineering bullies, male and female, simply because the rest of the family doesn't see them in their real light. Many a big business has been undermined by seemingly harmless clerks.

A weakling may carry a wallop you never suspect and if you expose yourself to it, it will be just your bad luck.

Some Ways to Ward Off Influenza.

FORTUNATELY, we have learned much about influenza since the severe epidemic in 1918, which spread throughout the world and killed thousands upon thousands of people. Then, we knew almost nothing about what caused influenza. Now, we have a great deal of evidence to show that the disease is caused by a virus, the smallest of all disease-producing organisms.

We know that there are two strains of this virus, influenza A and influenza B, and that either or both may produce the disease. We have even developed a vaccine against it, which seems to give certain people protection for several months at least.

However, many people will still contract influenza even after receiving the vaccine, so that we also know we cannot rely on it 100 per cent.

In the years since the last epidemic we have gained new knowledge about treatment, too, and have better weapons to combat its worst effect than we ever had in the past.

Influenza causes pain and aching in the muscles, sometimes cough and sore throat, headache and loss of appetite, and usually fever. When an attack occurs, it is advisable that the patient go to bed at once. According to Dr. William Gunn of London, going to bed early when an attack occurs is not only in the interest of the patient, but also helps to protect others who might catch the disease from him.

Often, the early symptoms may be so mild that the patient tries to remain up and about. This may cause the disease to become more severe and lead to a prolonged illness.

Other measures should include the correction of constipation, drugs prescribed by the physician to relieve headache, irritability and sleeplessness, and nose drops if there is a great deal of nasal congestion. Sometimes, a cough medicine may also be required.

One of the chief dangers of influenza is that a secondary infection with streptococci or pneumococci or other germs may occur. For this reason, penicillin and sulfonamide drugs are often administered during an influenza attack to help ward off complications. All of these, of course, are taken only under a physician's order.

Carroll Reece, Speaking for GOP, Sees Republican Congress Sure

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by several distinguished guest columnists — today's by Carroll Reece, chairman of the Republican National Committee.)

* * *

By CARROLL REECE

WASHINGTON—The American people are tired of being pushed around by their public servants. They are tired of being deceived by those in whom they have reposed public trust. They are tired of being offered political bribes of their own money. They are tired of living in a perpetual state of phony emergency.

They are tired of seeing the value of their hard-earned dollars decreased by a spendthrift administration which for fourteen years (most of them peacetime years) has spent more than it had to spend.

Americans are tired of paying unnecessarily high taxes to support a profligate and stupid bureaucracy operating on the theory so elegantly phrased by one of its chief exponents that the people are "too damned dumb" to understand what their bureaucratic chaperones were doing.

They are tired of seeing the policies of the government of the United States dictated by a group of counterfeit "liberals" who are actually exponents of an alien and radical totalitarian philosophy of government and some of whom have been exceedingly dilatory, to say the least, about taking out naturalization papers.

The foregoing observations are based upon information acquired by and thrust upon today's guest conductor of this column during a series of trips which have taken him into almost every corner of the United States during the past four months.

A concise summary of these observations is that the people of the United States have determined to get the present government of the United States out of their collective hair.

On the basis of that appraisal of the determined objective of the people, here, in the language of the normal proprietor of this column, is a "prediction of things to come," namely:

Republicans Constructive.

The American people, for two principal reasons, will elect a Republican congress in November.

1. Because they have come to realize that the Republican party offers a constructive and practical program for getting the government out of the people's hair and Republican members of congress by their recorded VOTES as well as by their public declarations during the past two years have proved that this program will be written into law as soon as a Republican majority takes control of congress.

2. Because the present Democrat administration (which is anything but democratic) has proved its utter inability or unwillingness to maintain an orderly, prosperous and free economy at home or a respected position of the United States abroad.

The Republican program for the restoration of an American system of representative republican government in the United States has been described adequately by public declarations of Republican spokesmen and implemented by Republican votes in congress.

All citizens who are sincerely interested in knowing the details of that program have had ample opportunity to learn them —and they will have additional opportunities as the campaign progresses toward a decision in November.

In this connection, mention should be made of the administration propaganda line to the effect that the Republican program is negative and destructive rather that positive and constructive. (According to latest official figures there are more than 40,000 administration press agents on the federal payroll and some of them are skilled craftsmen and, probably, they have been able to deceive some gullible citizens who do not realize that their own taxes are being spent to deceive them.)

It should be remarked, however, that when a dentist pulls an abscessed tooth the operation may be destructive to the tooth and the abscess but it is quite constructive to the patient.

Democrats Disintegrating.

That the present Democrat administration is an abscess on the body politic is proved by many evidences of its disintegration and decay.

There is the case of Representative May of Kentucky, Democrat chairman of the powerful house committee on military affairs, involving indications of the misuse of political influence in the award of war contracts and misuse of public funds plus evidence that ammunition supplied to American forces abroad was defective and caused needless sacrifices of American lives during the Battle of the Bulge.

There is the case of Democrat Representative Coffee of Washington state who admits receipt of $2,500 from a successful bidder for a war contract and who insists the $2,500 was a campaign contribution and not a payment for services rendered although it was reported neither as a campaign contribution nor as income.

There is the case of Democrat Representative Curley of Massachusetts under conviction by a federal court but nevertheless elected mayor of Boston by the political machine of which he is the boss.

There are the formal and public assertions of Comptroller General Warren, a lifelong Democrat and former Democrat member of the house, to the effect that billions of dollars of public funds were wasted during the war because of the administration's slipshod methods of handling war contracts.

People Robbed.

And finally there is the public announcement of the Pendergast-PAC machine alliance formed under the public sponsorship of President Truman himself to "purge" Democrat Representative Roger Slaughter of Missouri who had refused to follow the Truman-PAC party line in congress.

By lending the prestige of his high office to the Pendergast-PAC alliance against Mr. Slaughter, Mr. Truman confirmed assertions repeatedly made by Republican spokesmen to the effect that the choice presented to the voters this year is a Republican congress on the one hand and a congress controlled by the PAC on the other. For that clarification of the issue the nation owes thanks to Mr. Truman.

Meanwhile it may be taken for granted that the evidences of inefficiency, extravagance and possible corruption revealed so far in the cases listed constitute only a peephole view of what will be exposed to the pitiless light of day when Republicans take control of the investigating committees of congress.

The people are entitled to know who robbed them, how and of how much, and they should know before the statute of limitations expires in any more cases. They will find out soon after the new Republican congress assembles in January, 1947.

Status of Foremen Not Clearly Defined.

WASHINGTON — One of the bundles waiting on the doorstep when congress comes back will be the issue of whether foremen are eligible to belong to labor unions under the terms of the Wagner Act. This question of whether supervisory employes can take part in collective bargaining under the protection of the federal government reaches a long way down into our troubled industrial system.

Almost unnoticed the other day, the United States circuit court of appeals for the Sixth circuit ruled in favor of a foremen's union. A majority of the three judges on the court held that the Wagner Act does protect foremen in their right to organize.

The 900 foremen at the Packard Motor Car company had chosen as their bargaining unit the Foremen's League for Education and Association, which is at least nominally an independent union. The company challenged their bargaining rights but a majority of the three members of the National Labor Relations board upheld the foremen, thus reversing previous board decisions.

The decision of the appeals court was based on the theory that, since the foremen's union is independent, the interest of these supervisory employes will not be identical with that of the rank and file in the big union representing the mass of the workers.

But earlier this had been challenged in a dissenting opinion by Gerard D. Reilly, labor board member who has just retired.

Reilly expressed his belief that the foremen's union is "not truly independent but rather an organization whose fate is inextricably bound up with the policy of the United Automobile Workers, the CIO union which represents the rank and file employes" in the Packard plant. This is in line with other dissents in which Reilly repeatedly insisted that the Labor Relations Act was not meant to include foremen in its provisions.

The Packard case will, of course, come before the Supreme court. It seems almost a certainty that the highest court will approve the decision upholding the right of foremen to organize and bargain collectively under the umbrella of the Wagner Act.

The reasons why this case is being followed so closely are pretty obvious. If top foremen, earning up to $500 a month and with the rights of disciplining and hiring and firing, can be blanketed into a union, the question of divided loyalties would seem to be a real one. Would a foreman owe his allegiance to the union or to management?

In some respects, the issue is even bigger than that. Top executives of the great collectivist units called corporations like to describe themselves as merely paid employes of the stockholders. If this is actually a fact, then perhaps these hired managers are also eligible to form trade unions, and the question of where the controls of ownership lie becomes cloudly and uncertain indeed.

Clearly, here is a matter on which congress must pass. In ruling in favor of the foremen, NLRB Chairman Paul M. Herzog said in effect that he felt more or less compelled to take that step in the absence of any declared policy by congress.

Too much turns on this question to permit it to rest on an administrative ruling. If the scope of the unions is to be broadened in this way, then the green light should come from the branch of government elected directly by the people.

Farmer's Diary: "Use What You Have."

YOUNG MOSES, refugee from the Egyptian court, hid in Midian and was troubled by the injustices heaped upon his kinsmen, the Israelites. Watching the flock of his father-in-law, he saw a bush that was on fire, yet not consumed. It wondered him so that he went that way to investigate.

It was then that God spoke from the bush. "Moses . . . draw not nigh thither. Put off thy shoes. The place where thou standest is holy ground."

Later, when Moses was timid about undertaking the duty that was put upon him. . . . "What is that in thy hand?" "A rod." "Cast it down" . . . use it. And immediately it became alive—full of power.

To use the thing we have at hand—"to use better all natural means and as little of the artificial as possible"—that seems to me to be plain common sense, in farming as in anything else. The first rule of education is to begin with what the student knows.

There are occasions when I walk up across our barren slope and look at the young peach and apple trees I planted there with pity in my heart. They are struggling to get sustenance from a meager soil. I have not been man enough to get everything done to help them that I might do. Some are stunted and will never be as perfect and beautiful as they were meant to be.

It is not all my fault. Those farmers who cut off the original trees and plowed that land up and down the hillside, so that much of the topsoil washed away, were to blame, perhaps.

Did they not know that somebody would follow them?

But the voice of Nature cries "Use what you have. Watch how lands have replenished themselves, through all the ages." So I bring spadefuls of humus as soft as leaf mold and woods dirt from the forest floor. I fill the hollow about the dwarfed young tree and lay down a few flat stones on top, if any are handy.

The next year the weakling tree starts off with vigorous growth. It doubles in height, and sends out two fine laterals. I dig down into the loose soil beneath a stone at the base and find that earthworms are busily honeycombing the soil with aerating canals and avenues for moisture. The rootlets of the tree line these tiny canals with their branching tips . . . the soil is alive.

I cut the lespedesa and the tangled beggarweed that grow nearby and heap it about my tree, with stones and a bit of earth on top, to weight it down. Nature has provided us with abundant cure for impoverished land, if we but use what is near at hand. Earthworms change the soil which they eat and digest into the finest kind of available plant food. The worms must be fed, or they will not multiply. They will eat any kind of organic food . . . whatever has been alive.

Timely Editorial

Tax Bloodsuckers.

The history of economics is rife with fallacious propaganda by "thinkers" who can not see beyond their noses or are moved by ulterior motives contrary to the public weal.

For example, it is argued that if the government dispensed with about one-half of the present 3,300,000 bureaucratic employes their loss in wages would greatly reduce the national income.

The facts are that if 1,500,000 employes were cut off from the soft-snap government payroll, the taxpayers of the country would be relieved from providing about $3,750,000,000 a year for their salaries, this saved money would flow into industry and business; and the fired employes could get jobs and become American producers of wealth instead of tax bloodsuckers.—Detroit News.

COUPLE ON TRIP AFTER MARRIAGE SUNDAY

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Yarger and Son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bletz Exchange Vows.

MISS NAOMI JOYCE YARGER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edis LeRoy Yarger, Gibson avenue, and Howard William Bletz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bletz, R. D. 5, were united in marriage Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in an open church double ring ceremony.

The vows were repeated before the altar of the South Main Street Evangelical church with Rev. Willard J. Shawk assisting as Rev. James Davis officiated.

Miss Pauline Statler presented a program of nuptial music while Mrs. Dean Wolf, soloist, sang the following selections: "I Love You Truly," Bond, "Because," D'Hardelot, and "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte.

The bride wore a street length dress of aqua crepe with lace gloves and black accessories. A band of aqua flowers and net was worn in her hair. The bridal bouquet was of white gladioli and asters.

Mrs. Jack B. Craig, sister of the bride, served as matron-of-honor and wore a dress of rose crepe. She carried a bouquet of rose gladioli and purple asters.

Mrs. Yarger was attired in a black silk crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias. The groom's mother wore a powder blue suit with black accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Best man for Mr. Bletz was his brother Elmer Bletz, while ushers were Charles Stockwell, brother-in-law of the bride, and Dean Wolf, brother-in-law of the groom.

A reception was held at the bride's home for 75 guests with a four-tiered wedding cake as centerpiece of the bridal table.

The new Mrs. Bletz was wearing a fuchsia wool suit with black accessories and a corsage of white roses when the couple left for a honeymoon through the east to Niagara Falls.

Both the bride and groom plan to attend Ohio university after Sept. 14.

The former Miss Yarger graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and has attended Kent State university and Arizona State college.

Mr. Bletz graduated from Madison high school and attended Asbury college, Kentucky, before serving two years in the U. S. Army air corps. He has been employed at Westinghouse Manufacturing company.

The program for the 1946-47 season of the Business and Professional Women's club of the city was announced recently.

A committee headed by the club president, Miss Urith Funston, has chosen the following monthly program and hospitality chairmen who will plan the ten meetings during the year. Serving on the committee with Miss Funston were Mrs. Charles Kerr and Mrs. Gertrude Kaufman, program co-ordination chairmen; Mrs. William D. Clauss and Miss Pearl Wierman, hospitality chairmen.

The program for the year will begin with the report of the 1946 biennial convention held in Cleveland in July, Sept. 11. Mrs. Kaufman and Mrs. E. C. Dougherty will be in charge. October 13-19 will be National Business Women's week which will be the topic of the Oct. 9 meeting with Miss Rebecca Grubaugh in charge of the program and Mrs. George Casperson hospitality chairman.

There will be an open program Nov. 13 in charge of Miss Stella Arras with Mrs. Guy Guthrie in charge of hospitality. The Christmas program, Dec. 11, will be in charge of Mrs. Grace Downs and Miss Ruth Maffett will be hospitality chairman.

The January program will be arranged by the radio committee with Miss Dorothy Landers in charge and Miss Mary Eggert in charge of hospitality. Initiation of new members will be held in February with Mrs. Trent Perry and Mrs. Lenna Mateer in charge.

Miss Clara Miller will be in charge of the program to be given at the 23rd anniversary dinner to be in March, with Mrs Emma Reinewald in charge of hospitality The annual career night for high school girls of the senior class of Mansfield high school who are enrolled in home economics, commercial and distributive education courses will be in April with Miss Wilma Blaney, program chairman, and Miss Edna Tucker, hospitality chairman.

Officers for the next season will be installed in May and the year's activities will close with the annual June outing in charge of Miss Minnie Laudon and Miss Jeannette Hoffman.

Delightfully different. Baste baked fish with lemon soured cream (three tablespoons lemon juice to one cup cream). Bake fish in moderately hot oven.

Cut carrots and other long vegetables lengthwise because their cells are long and less of the nutrient qualities will escape in the cooking water.

JUNIOR SWANK . . . Big and little sister wear matching frocks of fine cotton poplin with smocking at yoke and waistline.

PARTY GIRLS . . . They'll be the belles of the ball in pink batiste frocks trimmed in imported lace, by Celeste.

MEN—

"Don't ever swear," my mother said, "at men! Raise your fine, feminine voice against our Lords and Masters and you'll spend your life either decorating the chairs around the ballroom or alone in an apartment with a cat!" However, today for me is the Fourth of July, and hereby I shall state my Declaration of Independence. I shall tell you what is wrong with the American man—and I don't care if I don't have a date for two weeks. Gentlemen, my jaundiced eyes have watched you from the gleaming walls of the Stork to the telephone-laden tables of Hollywood's Brown Derby with whistle stops at Abilene, Kan.; Painted Post, N. Y., and Corn Stalk Center, Iowa. Whether champagne falls out of your glasses or hayseeds out of your hair, the picture is the same.

* * *

From the jerk who says "I'll meet you inside the movie house," to the type who leers across the luncheon table murmuring, "I left my wallet at home," you are afflicted with bad manners because you are wise guys. Sure, you know the answers, but are you asking the right questions?

* * *

The American male of the species is over-eager. Whether he be pink-cheeked and 15, or jolly-faced at 50, a girl has to be a triple-threat artist to avoid his pitches. What does he think life is . . . a game of quoits?

Miss Parker said "Men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses," but the American man will pass at a girl with a hood over her head. She has to learn to outrun him, intercept his passes, and outblock him to boot. As a result, the American girl must be a combination of Lana Turner and Sid Luckman.

* * *

Let a man honor a woman with marriage, and he immediately lies down, takes his shoes off, and relaxes for the rest of his life

His hobby, whether it be collecting old tennis shoes or making kites, will be spread all over the lawn, garage and house Let his wife leave a piece of knitting out and the shouts will be heard to Bikini.

The Reformer (who usually comes in the shape of a husband) tells you to stop wearing red lipstick and nail polish, and then whistles at girls who do.

He screams if you leave your powder box out, but never puts the top back on the toothpaste. Clothes, wet towels and old razor blades lie in his tracks. What does he want—a wife or a valet? Naturally, a wife. He would have to pay a valet more!

Once a man gets a woman, the courting stops The husband eats crackers in bed and burns the bedside table with cigars. He reads the newspaper over the breakfast table, after dinner, and before he retires A woman would do better to marry a newspaper.

* * *

The final type of American man who is making career girls look to straitjackets with longing, is the I-Hate-Women-in-Business character. He insists in his nasal voice that since we get salary checks we don't have to be treated like ladies. When equality moves in, Chivalry is dead, is his cry.

Knowing men, women don't expect too much. However, when we run for the subway, do you have to kick us in the shins to get there first? Can't you just run faster? We know you'll give up your seat for a dime, but we have to use that dime to take a bus to meet you inside the movie house.

However, with all I have said about you, and with all your frailties, don't get me wrong, I still love you!

BETTY JEAN FOSTER WEDS R. B. SLABACH

Seventh Day Adventist Church Is Scene of Wedding Sunday: Couple to Attend College In Michigan.

THE Seventh Day Adventist church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Betty Jean Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Foster, Mansfield R. D. 1, and Russell Bernard Slabach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan C. Slabach of Bucyrus, Sunday evening. Elder F. C. Webster of Mt. Vernon officiated at the ceremony, and Mrs. F. C. Webster played the wedding music. Mrs. Minnie Betzel was soloist.

For her wedding the bride wore a white faille and marquisette gown trimmed with lace at the yoke and a lace peplum Her silk illusion veil was attached to a matching lace bonnet. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and white roses.

Miss Jean Clever served as maid of honor and wore a yellow net gown. Her bouquet was of orchid asters. The bridesmaids, Miss Roberta Foster, sister of the bride, and Miss Mary Ellen Lantz, cousin of the bride, wore white marquisette dresses and carried bouquets of pastel asters. As flower girl, Lila Lee Brigham wore white net trimmed with yellow bows and carried a basket of yellow rose petals.

William Slabach of Martinsburg, W. Va., acted as his brother's best man and John Slabach of Bucyrus, also a brother of the bridegroom and Earl Sauder were ushers.

Mrs Foster wore a lime sheer wool dress with brown accessories and a gardenia corsage while Mrs. Slabach was gowned in wisteria crepe with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bridal table was decorated with the wedding cake and the bride's bouquet.

When they return from their wedding trip to West Virginia and Washington, D. C. the newlyweds will reside in Berrien Springs, Mich., where they will attend Emmanuel Missionary College.

The former Miss Foster is a graduate of Springfield Township high school and attended Washington Missionary College, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Slabach, a graduate of Mt. Vernon Academy, Mt. Vernon, is a veteran of three years in the Army Air Corps. He is employed in Bucyrus.

White Sox Beat Feller, Four to One

CHICAGO—(AP)—The White Sox climbed back into a tie for fifth place in the American league yesterday by defeating the Cleveland Indians and Bob Feller, 4 to 1, on the seven-hit pitching of Joe Haynes.

Haynes' victory was his third over Feller and his fifth of the season.

The White Sox hopped on Feller for three runs in the fourth on singles by Taft Wright, Don Kolloway and Cass Michaels, aided by Heinz Becker's throwing error. Both Feller and Haynes pitched scoreless ball thereafter.

Lucas Defeats Leesville, 4-1

LUCAS — Following their loss in the county tournament at Mansfield, the Lucas Merchants returned home yesterday afternoon to break into the win column.

The Leesville Reds were the victims of the Merchants, 4-1, on the high school diamond.

Franks hurled for the locals and set the Reds down with five hits. Lucas got to W. Eckert, Leesville pitcher, for 10 bingles.

Red-headed Patty, who hails from Minneapolis, pocketed the richest purse in women's golf—$5,600—for her victory.

Cubs Defeat Reds Twice

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The Chicago Cubs improved their third place position today with a 6-2, 9-8 double header victory over Cincinnati before 15,936 cash customers.

Emil Kush, the Cubs' ace relief hurler and the fourth Bruin pitcher to take the mound in the second game, received credit for the free-scoring triumph. The Reds also used four pitchers, Bob Malloy being charged with the loss.

With the lead changing hands four times, the Cubs made the best of a walk, an error, a hit batsman and two singles in the eighth to push over a trio of runs that provided the winning margin.

Lefty Johnny Schmitz proved the master of the Reds in the first game, setting them down with six hits.

The Cubs got to starter Joe Beggs for one run in the opening round, counted two more in the fifth and then drove him from the mound with a three-run outburst in the sixth.

Bo-Sox Top A's In Tenth, 4-3

BOSTON — (AP) — The Boston Red Sox took a ten-inning 4-3 victory from the Philadelphia Athletics today, beating pitcher Bob Savage after his fellow-townsmen from Manchester, N. H., had given him an automobile.

Connie Mack's men went one up in their half of the tenth without benefit of a hit. Tex Hughson, third Sox flinger, pitched too carefully to Oscar Grimes and walked the A's second sacker. Pinky Higgins threw beyond first after fielding Barney McCosky's sacrifice bunt and Grimes took third. After Buddy Rosar popped out, Pete Suder squeezed Grimes home.

Bobby Doerr shot a hard liner to left to open the Sox tenth and it squirted out of Sam Chapman's hands for an error. Rudy York crossed up the A's infield and beat out a bunt towards first. Gutteridge ran for him.

Both advanced on Higgins' sacrifice and after an intentional walk to Hal Wagner, Wally Moses flied out deep to right to score Doerr and send Gutteridge to third whence, he too, scored on a ringing single to left by Culberson.

Braves Take Two From Phillies

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Boston Braves swept a doubleheader yesterday with the Philadelphia Phillies 8-0 and 4-2 before 21,732.

In the opener, Johnny Sain pitched his third shutout of the season limiting the Phils to four hits scattered so effectively that not a man passed second base. Sain's victory, his 16th against 12 losses, was his fifth win of the season over the Blue Jays against one defeat. Boston clinched the nightcap by clubbing Charlie Stanceu for four runs in the first inning. John Niggeling got the pitching credit.

Spud Chandler Gets 17th Win

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Spud Chandler scored his 17th pitching triumph for the New York Yankees yesterday with a 7-2 win over Washington.

New York lost no time going out in front. In the first inning after two out the Yankees put over two runs on three walks and two doubles. Nick Etten getting a double with the bases full to score two mates.

The Senators finally got to Chandler for two runs in the eighth.

HOLDING FIRST PLACE for 13 consecutive weeks, the Bladers cinched Tappan Stove company's first shift championship with a 5½-2½ victory over the Hook Shots last week at the Possum Run links. In winning the title, the Bladers scored 70 out of a possible 112 points during the 14-week schedule. Members of the winning team are pictured above. Dodgers Cut Cards National League Lead To 1½ Games

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers cut the St. Louis Cardinals National League lead to 1½ games yesterday as they swept a double header from the New York Giants before 51,977 fans at the Polo grounds 3-1 and 2-1. They gained a full game on the Cards who split with the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

Joe Hatten and Hugh Casey held the Giants to two hits in the finale, one being Ernie Lombardi's fifth inning home run.

The Dodgers' winning run was the result of Pee Wee Reese's ninth inning single, Ken Trinkle's wild pitch on which Reese raced to third and Catcher Lombardi's passed ball.

The Dodgers also came from behind to win the first game. Trailing 1-0, the Dodgers went ahead when Dixie Walker and Ed Stevens banged Bill Voiselle for successive home runs in the eighth inning.

The Giants' run came in the third when Bill Rigney singled, went to second on an error, third on a sacrifice, and scored on Will Marshall's single.

The Cardinals won the first game 7 to 6 in ten innings and dropped the abbreviated nightcap, 2 to 1.

Fred Ostermueller picked up his 10th victory in the nightcap, called at the end of seven innings because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law. Ostermueller yielded six hits, one a home run by Terry Moore in the fifth inning. The Bucs got to Harry Brecheen for single runs in the third and fourth.

Howie Pollet entered as a relief hurler in the seventh inning of the opener and was credited with his 18th victory. The winning run came in the 10th when Red Schoendienst smashed an infield hit off Frankie Gustine's glove to score Marty Marion from third.

Indus Clubs Play Tuesday Night

Barnes and Gorman-Rupp will resume their Industrial softball league battle Tuesday night at Johns park starting promptly at 6 o'clock.

Now sporting a 9-2 record, the Barnes nine must defeat the G-R nine if it wants to make certain of gaining the Indus crown.

G-R is one game behind the pace-setters and also must get a win or be out of the running.

WESTBROOK CROWN

Bob Moorhead and Carl Wiseman meet today for the Westbrook country club championship over the 36-hole route. They play 18-holes this morning and 18 this afternoon.

Budge Patty Upsets Wimbledon Champ In National Net Meet

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. —(AP)— Whoever wins the National Tennis championship in the course of the coming week, it will not be Yvon Petra, the tall Frenchman who galloped through the recent Wimbledon tournament and was seeded No. 1 among the foreign threats in the current meet.

Budge Patty of Los Angeles, a two-time former National Junior champion, attended to Petra with great finality before a holiday crowd of 700 in the big stadium yesterday, turning the Parisian back in straight sets, 6-4, 9-7, 6-4.

The unexpected victory gives Patty an excellent chance of going to the quarter-finals, at least, providing he can get past Bob Falkenburg, the intercollegiate champion, in the fourth round.

Jack Kramer, the husky young Californian who is supposed to win the title, gave tournament officials a few uneasy moments yesterday before he settled down and won his opening match from the veteran J. Gilbert Hall by scores of 7-5, 6-0, 6-3.

Possibly the day's outstanding woman's match was a torried hour and a half three-setter in which Mrs. Kay Stammers Menzies of Britain, the second seeded foreign woman, finally subdued Barbara Krase of San Francisco, this country's clay court champion, 4-6, 6-3, 9-7.

Frankie Parker, the defending champion plugged methodically to his second easy victory, out classing James Brink of Seattle, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

Don McNeill, a former champion, looked smooth in winning his opener from Don McDiarmid of Canada, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4. Pauline Betz, the women's favorite, performed briefly, but competently in the stadium as she put out Mrs. Jacque Fischer of Glen Ridge, N. J., 6-0, 6-0. Margaret Osborne, supposedly second best among the girls, ousted Mrs. Barbara Clement of Haverford, Pa., 6-1, 6-1.

Sugar Ray, Uncrowned Welter King, Gets Shot At Title

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ray (Sugar) Robinson, long regarded as the uncrowned king of the welterweights, gets his eagerly awaited shot at the 147-pound title Friday night when he meets champion Marty Servo of Schenectady, N. Y., in a 15-round bout in Yankee stadium.

The Harlem flash, a magnificent boxer and a sharp hitter, beat Servo twice before the aggressive upstater won the championship with a two-round knockout of Freddie (Red) Cochrane last February.

Robinson will be a strong betting favorite to put an official status on his claims and protect his record of never having been defeated by a man his weight. In 71 pro fights the tall negro has been whipped only by Jake Lamotta, the anvil-chinned middleweight.

Servo, despite his knockout loss to middleweight Rocky Graziano in March, will have a goodly share of supporters. The curly-haired Italian gave Robinson a close tussle in both fights.

In another championship fight this week, Ike Williams, the N.B.A. lightweight king of Trenton, N. J., will risk his diadem against Ronnie James, the British 135-pound champ, in a 15-round title clash at Cardiff, Wales, James' home town.

Also on Wednesday night, Willie Pep, world's featherweight champion from Hartford, Conn., will face Walter Kolby, Blasdell, N. Y., in a 10-round non-title fuss at Buffalo, N. Y.

BEARS ROLL OVER GIANTS, 19 TO 0

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Chicago Bears defeated the New York Giants, 19 to 0 yesterday in a National football league exhibition game for the benefit of war services relief before 32,367 fans in Wrigley Field.

The Bears scored in each of the first three periods, marching 80 yards in 12 plays in the opening quarter with Hugh Gallarneau sprinting 20 yards around left end for the touchdown.

Two Games Set for Today at Liberty

By HAL CLAWSON

Semi-finals and finals of the Richland county baseball tournament will be the feature Labor day athletic attraction here today at Liberty park.

Mansfield Gray's will play Legion Post 72 at 1 o'clock this afternoon with the winner coming back to tangle with the Shiloh Lions for the county title at 3 p. m.

Three games yesterday opened the first annual tourney.

In the lengthy contest, the Grays pounded out a 16-9 triumph over the Lucas Merchants in the tourney opener while Post 72 was outlasting the Skeeter's Sohio nine, 13-10, in the second game.

Both of these contests lasted nearly three hours each.

In the third tilt and the day's top game the Shiloh Lions blanked the Mansfield Tigers, 4-0.

This turned into a hurling duel between the Tigers' Don Hardy and the Lions' Ray Ramey.

Ramey set the Tigers down on four bingles while the Shiloh club was banging out five safeties off Hardy. Two of the winner's hits were for extra bases. Ramey and Harrington both rapped out triples.

Shiloh scored two runs in the sixth. Reynolds led off with a single to center, went to second on a passed ball, reached third as Zeiters grounded out and scored on Snavely's error on Bushey's grounder.

Bushey then plated on Harrington's long triple to right field.

Reynolds again led off in the eighth and was safe when he beat out a bunt to the pitcher. He advanced on a passed ball and a fielder's choice and came home on a wild pitch.

A fast double play killed a Tiger rally in the eighth. Ropp batting for Pollock, was safe on Reynolds' error but Miller, pinch hitting for Ryan, hit into a twin-killing.

After spotting the Skeeter's nine three runs in the opening frame, Post 72 shoved over six tallies in the second frame inning and remained in the lead the rest of the way.

E. Woodberry was the Legion's hitting star, getting a triple and double out of four trips to the plate. George Avery also had a three-bagger and Stokes a homer.

Stokes turned in a fine mound stint and finished with 14 strikeouts. He gave up 15 hits along the way.

Merel Leedy hurled the win for the Grays, giving up 11 hits. His teammates jumped on Oswalt, Lucas hurler, for 20 hits.

W. Wade had three for six at the plate while F. Burgraff had four for five and Bob Boganiz three for five.

RUSSIA AIMS FOR 32,000,000 FIGHTING MEN

Survey Predicts Soviet Army Nearly Twice That of United States.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A government survey, prepared at the request of Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill), makes a prediction that Russia's fighting-age manpower will reach 32,000,000 by 1970—nearly equal that of the United States, Britain, France, Germany and Italy combined.

At present, the analysis said, Soviet military power is less than that of the United States.

The study was made by the Legislative Reference Service, an agency in the Library of Congress which does research for members of congress.

140-Page Report.

By 1970, the 140-page document said, prewar Russia alone—excluding the annexed Baltic states—will have 250,000,000 people. It said probably 32,000,000 will be between 20 and 34, and 22,000,000 in the "ideal" military age bracket of 20 to 29.

The population of the U.S. may reach 160,000,000 by that time, it said, with 18,000,000 men 20 to 34 and about 10,500,000 between 20 and 29.

"The highest priority is given to atomic development," the report added. "Stalin . . . has set goals for scientific achievement and for agricultural and industrial (potentially military) production sufficient to insure the Soviet Union against 'all possible accidents' or eventualities."

Forced Labor.

The report asserted that several million workers in Russia are kept in "forced labor . . . under police discipline and receive only miserable keep" for their efforts.

On other topics, the report said:

Private enterprise — Restricted to handicrafts and cultivation of very small plots. All land is owned by the state.

Living standards—Have risen gradually, steadily since pre-Soviet times. They have not reached the level of many European countries and are "far below those of the United States."

Housing—A room for a whole family "is standard in the western regions."

Religion —Friendlier relations between church and state have replaced earlier "persecution." But there may be a "more rigid attitude" toward religion in the postwar period.

Education — Communist party doctrines "are the only ones which can be presented to . . . the learners."

Leisure time—Strictly controlled by the state and Communist party.

Plant Dwarf Irises Now

By DEAN HALLIDAY

THERE'S still time to plant dwarf irises. They are ideal for the rock garden, or to brighten crevices beside garden steps. They are equally well suited for edging material for the hardy border, or at the edge of a small garden pool.

Dwarf irises vary in height from 4 inches to 10 or 12 inches. They are the earliest of the irises to bloom, showing color in April. Dwarf bearded irises are vigorous growers.

Two of the most popular dwarf irises are shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. One is iris pumila, a bearded type, and iris cristata, one of the crested varieties.

Iris pumila is very dwarf, with stemless flowers and very broad leaves. This iris can be used to form dense mats of bright blue, purple, crimson, yellow or white. The soil in which this iris is planted should be enriched with organic matter. The plants are such rapid growers that they soon deplete the soil of its fertility.

Iris cristata, or crested iris, grows to a height of 5 or 6 inches and has broad, dark green leaves. Its almost stemless flowers are a beautiful pale lavender. The lower petals are decorated with an orange crest, hence its name. A white iris of this variety is quite rare.

There is an autumn-flowering iris pumila which has two or more normal flowering seasons each year. It blossoms in the spring along with other early flowering varieties and again in the autumn, beginning in September and continuing until killed by heavy frosts. Recommended are Autumn Queen, Jean Siret, Lieut. Chavagnac and Olive White.

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

If you see the declarer playing as if to threaten a throw-in play against your partner, you naturally want to protect him if you can. You want to save him from winning the trick which will compel him next to lead back into a tenace held by the declarer or dummy. Sometimes you can't do it because you have no card high enough to win the crucial trick if your partner discards his highest. But if you do have the next-ranking card, you can tell your partner to chuck his big one. How? By merely giving a high-card signal, or better still, a high-low, on earlier tricks.

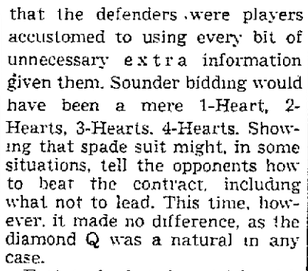
Bad, bad bidding, considering that the defenders were players accustomed to using every bit of unnecessary extra information given them. Sounder bidding would have been a mere 1-Heart, 2-Hearts, 3-Hearts, 4-Hearts. Showing that spade suit might, in some situations, tell the opponents how to beat the contract, including what not to lead. This time, however, it made no difference, as the diamond Q was a natural in any case.

East took that first trick with the A and returned the 2 to the K. South ruffed the diamond 8 with the heart 2, then led the heart 4 to the A. The heart 10 was won by the J and the declarer continued on his plan for a throw-in if East had the club Q. He could take the club K and A, then lead the 10 to the Q. East now would have to return a spade into the A-Q or else a diamond, which could be ruffed in the dummy while South discarded a spade.

But, when the club A and K were played, West was on his toes. Seeing what was up he put the 9 on the first club trick and was ready to play the 2 on the next. But the 9 was enough of a signal for East, who threw his Q on the next trick. So West's J won the third club. He then led back a spade, through the tenace, and assured defeat of the contract.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

How should South seek maximum returns after West leads the diamond K, A and 4 against his 3-No Trumps?

TERRY AND THE PIRATES— By Milton Caniff

HO, CAP'N CHOLLIE! YOU DID NOT GO UP TO MISSY SMYTHE-HEATHERSTONE'S HOUSE FOR COFFEE WITH HER AN' CAP'N LEE?
YEAH, SPARKS, I WENT... BUT THE PARTY'S OVER!
CHARLIE! FOR PETE'S SAKE, LET'S BAT THIS AROUND! I DON'T WANT YOU SORE AT ME BECAUSE OF SOMETHING NASTY SMY—
I'M NOT SORE, TERRY—BUT IT DOESN'T SEEM VERY BIG OF YOU TO PRETEND THAT A GIRL LIKE NASTALTHIA WOULD SWEEP YOU INTO HER ARMS!
AW, CHAZZ, I KNOW YOU SAIL FOR NASTY—AND IT'S VERY GENTLEMANLY OF YOU TO THINK SHE WOULDN'T BE PLAYING THE TWO OF US AGAINST EACH OTHER, BUT YOU'VE GOT TO KNOW—
LET'S SKIP IT BEFORE YOU SAY SOMETHING I'LL BE SORRY I HEARD...
HONORED FATHER OF SPARKS ALWAYS SAID THE WESTERN CUSTOM OF EMBRACE BY THE LIPS COULD LEAD TO DISTRACTION FROM LABOR AND LACERATION OF FRIENDSHIPS...

GASOLINE ALLEY— By Frank King

I WENT LOOKING FOR A JOB FOR WALLET & BOBBLE, BIX. AN' WAS SHE A HUMDINGER!
THE JOB?
NO—HULDA! SHE WORKS FOR A GUY THAT'S GOT A BURNED GARAGE IN HIS BACK YARD THAT NEEDS CLEANIN' UP.
DID YOU GET THE JOB?
NO, BUT SHE'S A CUTE TRICK. WHAT'S MORE, BIX, MAYBE SHE'S GOT A FRIEND!
OH, NO, SARGE, THAT WOULDN'T DO AT ALL! I'D PASS OUT.

EVERY TIME I MEET PIERRE HE BOWS AND KISSES MY HAND, AUNT ELLEN!
AH, THE ROMANTIC TYPE.
AND EVERY TIME RODNEY TAKES ME OUT HE GIVES ME ANOTHER CHARM FOR MY BRACELET.
I SEE, A MAN OF THE WORLD.
I'VE DECIDED TO GO TO THE DANCE WITH RODNEY.
REALLY?
YES, HAVING YOUR HAND KISSED IS DEFINITELY GOOD FOR A GIRL'S MORALE BUT A CHARM BRACELET CAN UPLIFT A GIRL SO SORT OF PERMANENTLY.

NATION-WIDE MAN-HUNT FOR CRAZED CARTOONIST !!!
Lester Gooch
Have you seen this man?
Officials of the "Babbling Brook" Sanatorium reported that Lester Gooch, their most famous inmate, had escaped at dawn to-day.
Local and Federal authorities have combined forces in a grim man-hunt to get Gooch before he commits another atrocity, such as another picture of "Lena the Hyena."
When Gooch returned from Lower Slobbovia, some months ago, he announced that he had seen the most repulsive female since the dawn of Time, and boasted that he would draw "Lena the Hyena" for his horror-loving fans.
Civic-minded editors, however, deleted the frightful face, and the great American public was fortunately spared.
TO THE READER
Gooch who, naturally, cracked under the strain of drawing Lena, was slowly recovering at the sanatorium, when he accidentally learned that
'S masterpiece had been deleted. Screaming that his MUST see Lena, even though drawing her might cost his sanity, the crazed cartoonist escaped,

LUCAS YOUTHS PUSH PLANS FOR CENTER

Accept Use of Hall and Form Group to Sponsor Dance Friday.

LUCAS—Elaborate plans, along with a solicitation campaign, are being made by Lucas young people for the opening of their Youth center with a dance on Friday night, Sept. 6.

Spurred by Robert McCready's offer to let them use the spacious second floor of the Odd Fellows hall he owns,, the young people lost no time in perfecting an organization and beginning a drive which to date has netted them more than $120. Only a few on their list of prospects have been contacted.

The big room has been thoroughly cleaned and the floor varnished in preparation for the opening night's affair for which Bud Swain's orchestra will play.

Kenneth Darling heads the sponsoring organization, with Peggy Barger, vice president; Beverly Briner, secretary and Alvin Hawkins, treasurer.

Committees have been named, including Peggy Barger and Beverly Briner for dance ticket sales; Ollie Briner and Marlee Leiter, advertising; Delores Hawkins and Richard Sauders, lunch; Catherine Callahan and Marjorie Price, decorations; James Fanello and Peggy Barger, chaperones, and Beatrice Culler, Ollie Briner, Delores Hawkins and Alvin Hawkins, solicitations.

Persons having either cash or furnishings such as a piano, game tables and the like which they would either give or loan are asked to contact a member of the sponsoring organization.

ASK DOUBLE OK ON BOND ISSUES

Bucyrus Council to Certify Two Amounts Totaling $425,000

BUCYRUS—Resolutions to certify two large bond issues to the election board for the November balloting, asked because of opposition among some city officials, are scheduled for passage at the meeting of the council Tuesday night.

Council at their last meeting okayed the two issues, a $275,000 issue for a hospital addition, and a $150,000 issue for street improvements. Also approved was a two-tenths mill levy for park purposes. The issues and levy will be in addition to the three-mill school levy being asked this year.

Council voted to certify the bond issues in the face of opposition among certain city officials to such expenditures while costs are at such a high level.

Loudonville To Buy Residence For Public Library Building

LOUDONVILLE — A five-year search by the library board for new quarters for the city library is about to end with the purchase of the home of Mrs. Earl Wolf just east of Central park on the north side of Main street.

Lawrence Russell, Mansfield architect, has been engaged to inspect the building and check for necessary remodeling. The board expects to complete the purchase by the first of the year.

Started in 1905 with Bertha Scott as librarian, the library was moved into its present quarters in the city hall in 1909. Miss Scott retired in 1941 and was succeeded by Mrs. F. R. Bittinger, the present librarian.

The library long ago outgrew its home in the city hall and 1941 a building committee, composed of E. W. Beardsley, chairman, Glen Crow, and R. F. McMullen, was appointed by the board to find new quarters. Until now their efforts had been fruitless.

The other members of the library board are Mrs. Gaillard B. Fuller, president, Hoyland Pippitt, Mrs. Nelson Beem, and Mrs. J. R. Tschantz.

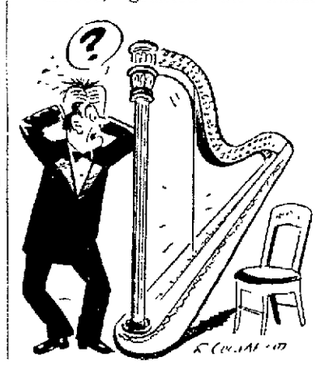
NO JOKE collection is complete without at least one Abraham Lincoln joke. Here it is. Young Abe took a sack of grain to a mill whose proprietor was known as the laziest soul in Illinois.

After watching the miller at work for a while, Abe commented dryly, "I can eat that grain as fast as you're grinding it."

'Indeed," grunted the miller.



'And how long do you think you could keep that up?"

"Until I starved to death," said Lincoln.

"Amazing," clucked the lady he had just met. "Which part is bull?"

The gent broke down. "The part about the thousand dollars," he confided

Horse Show To Be Held On Nye Farm

TIRO — Tiro-Buckeye Ranger horse show scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Sept. 15, will be held on the Weldon Nye farm, three miles northwest of Tiro. The Nye farm is three-quarters of a mile north of Ohio 98 on the Pope road

The farm has a sod field which affords an excellent site with lots of parking space and is close to electric power lines. The show is being announced at fairs and shows all over the state. Sixteen classes will afford competition with first prize winners receiving $10 cash and a trophy and ribbon

NEW FACES TO GREET PUPILS

Six New Teachers Added to Staff of Bucyrus High School.

BUCYRUS—Eight new faces, including two persons returning to teaching after military service, will greet Bucyrus high school pupils on the staff when school reopens Tuesday. Back after a leave of absence is Edwin Gearhart, high school principal and Robert Hoftetter, supervisor of instrumental music.

Others new this year are Al Pesek and Donald Burkey, coach and assistant coach; Florence Cordero, girls' physical education instructor; Margaret Nottke, home economics and science; Mrs. Irene Davis, home economics and Miss Mary Lou Wilde, English and Spanish.

New teachers in the elementary schools of the city are Mrs. Kathleen Frost, Mrs. Leota McGuire, Mrs. Olive Schneider, Mrs. Janet Kiess and Mrs. Doyle B. Maxwell.

The parochial school will have a replacement on the staff this year, Sister Concetta coming from Youngstown to replace Sister Madonna who will return to Akron after teaching here for one year.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Sept. 3.

The planetary indications are for a definite advance upon basic affairs, keen insight, even intuition or flashes of cleverness and clear vision.

Long-range and lasting objectives should be attacked with diligence, precision, patience and perseverance, sustained by common sense and practical routines.

Shun all forms of the phony—confusion and befuddlement; also, refrain from excess, strife and enmity or acid criticism. Excellent results and stability of the fortunes culminate from industry, sound judgment and the good will of associates

Those whose birthday it is should make their plans for stability, security and far-reaching results, based on a sharp insight into fundamental factors, with practical constructive systems, regard for details and enduring worth, also free from complications, dubious entanglements, as well as all forms of enmity, excess, extravagance and irregular contacts with strange persons.

However, the intuitions and ideals may be trustworthy, if supported by reason and sound sense. Don't quarrel with superiors.

A child born on this day will be endowed with practical and constructive ideals, with industry and application urging a building toward future security and lasting rewards.

Briefs

Posts $500 Bond—Harvey Day, 226 North Franklin avenue, yesterday posted $500 cash bond for appearance in court at 9:30 Tuesday to answer charges of having untaxed whisky in his possession.

Answer Two Fire Calls—Mansfield firemen yesterday answered two alarms to put out small fires.

At the Empire Steel corporation, where a lead impregnating tank had set fire to an accumulation of dirt and sawdust, they spent three hours in extinguishing small fires. No machinery was reported damaged by fire.

Earlier in the day they were called to a property owned by J. W. Bloor, 675 Brae Burn road, where they put out a grass fire caused by burning papers.

Police Arrest Two—George W. Turner and Ruth Green of 64 Raymond avenue were arrested by Mansfield police late Saturday on charges of disorderly conduct on complaint of Mrs. Joy Turner, same address, who told police she had been shot at twice.

Police said both George Turner and Ruth Green were fighting and that Ruth Green had stuck Turner in the hand twice with an ice pick and hit him on the head with a hammer.

4,000 Attend Farm Picnic At Plymouth

Jack Lait — On Broadway

BILL BRITTAIN, former St. Louis newspaperman, since then PRO for Gen. Marshall in China, came to New York to take a publicity position. He and his wife were discussing the flat famine in a taxi—they were stymied. The driver heard them, drew up, turned and said: "I'll bet you double or nothing I can place you—if I do, you pay twice the fare; if I don't, it's on me." They took him up. He drove them to Long Island, a $5 hop. But he got them a ducky apartment, just what they had quit hoping for.

A Hollywood star, blonde, in the stratosphere, and herself plenty promiscuous, has long been smitten with an actor, also well known, but not in her class. She bought him a home and a car. But she finally aired him. The house and the auto not only were used for entertaining tramps that her maid wouldn't talk to, but he wined and dined them—and signed her name to the checks.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—I have just been talking to Henry Kaiser and to L. H. Korndorff, of the Federal Shipbuilding company, about the Mead committee's investigation of the cost of the ceremonies with which cargo vessels, such as Liberties and Victories, and men of war, such as destroyers and cruisers, were launched during the war. I doubt that much can be made of this and tend to suspect that it is a diversion intended to direct attention to a mock scuffle at the far end of the car while the fellow who has just lifted the leather out of the victim's flask pocket slides out the door and up the subway stairs.

* * *

These ceremonies are a tradition of the ship-building trade and both Kaiser and Korndorff say not only that their companies paid the expenses out of profit but that the parties became more and more bleak until, when production was really rolling, they were just little nip-ups and a nuisance, at that.

* * *

Old Henry says the Maritime commission selected some of the sponsors, who invariably are ladies, and that his company naturally was expected to pay their freight from home to home, usually double, because each lady sponsor was allowed to pick a matron of honor to travel with her, and put them up at the best available hotel quarters. These weren't always much better than a hutch in a tourist camp, as you will recall if you were on the road much during the war, and aren't palatial yet, either, if it comes to that.

On a long haul by train, the sponsor and her matron got a compartment or drawing-room, by contrast, to be sure, with the sit-up and even stand-up accommodations that our brave boys and their brides had to make do on their tangled itineraries and, for the launching party, each girl got an orchid.

Then, in Kaiser's yards, the sponsor usually got a silver tray that cost $80 plus $2.80 tax, including the engraving of her name, the name of the ship and the yard and the date. In some cases, the souvenir was a silver cigarette box with a glass bottom made from a true fragment of the very bottle which the sponsor had cracked over the stem, giving the boat a little douse of domestic champagne.

Henry said these guests were selected mostly by the commission and sent to him and "I assume we did the courteous thing and treated them right." As you will have observed if you have talked much with Henry, in conversation he hops around like Father Divine or Thurman Arnold and I am not trying to explain how it could be that the Maritime commission selected so many and the state department picked a lot and still Henry, himself, preferred to recognize ladies actually employed in the shipyards who had had something to do with the creation of the ships they launched. I am not faulting him like a district attorney. He just isn't exact.

The state department horned in when the ships being launched were named for defunct foreign politicians or statesmen of our gallant allies or for heroic cities under the iron heel. Some vessels were named for American colleges and a few bore the names of young Americans who had been killed in the war whose mothers or wives were invited to christen them.

Although Henry makes quite a virtue of the fact that a person could have choked to death for lack of a drink at his parties, Kondorff said federal served no liquor either because everyone knows that knocks hell out of a whole day and, moreover, if people know a party is going to be dry they will find reasons why they can't come.

This was just fine for federal because the navy didn't want any more visitors than a bare ceremonial quorum taking peeks at navy ships. He built 76 destroyers, at Kearny and Port Newark.

* * *

All this came under the head of morale, the same splendid excuse that justified Frank Knox, when he was secretary of the navy, in handing over $100,000 to a young squirt here in New York whom he named his special assistant to turn out propaganda to raise the morale of the C. I. O.'s honest toilers in the ship-yards.

* * *

Neither Kaiser nor Korndorff know of any presents that cost $1,000 although transportation and hospitality in some cases could have come to that.

But it was penny-money, or breakage, compared to the squeeze on China lend-lease and bonus prices to rich "distressed" manufacturers who hollered poverty but rode in chaises and the union graft at Camp Shanks and Stewart Field, to name only a couple.

The Mead committee could strike more and richer pay dirt in those diggings.

ACT TUESDAY ON TWO CITY FIRE UNITS

Council to Get Legislation on Hiring Architect For Stations 4-5.

City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner said last night that he has been asked to prepare legislation for the hiring of an architect for a proposed Number Five fire station on Marion avenue and for the remodeling of Number Four station on Newman street.

He said the legislation is to be prepared for consideration at council's September meeting, tomorrow night. No fund total has yet been set for the hiring of the architect, he said.

Council is also scheduled to consider legislation for the resurfacing of Hoffman avenue and for the grading of Fourth avenue, Council Clerk Charles Stecker said.

* * *

Property Purchased.

Property for the Marion avenue station, to be located near Cline avenue, has already been purchased for $5,000. The fire department's fund is scheduled for an increase of $44,400, a large part of which will be used for the renovation of Number Four station.

Also up for consideration of council tomorrow will be a $435 appropriation for improvements at Number Three station on Chestnut street.

SEES JAPAN IN CONFLICT

MacArthur Declares Nation's Torn Between Democracy and Communism.

TOKYO— (AP) —Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared today the "dread uncertainty" of ideological conflict between democracy and communism hangs over Japan, a country which can be "either a powerful bulwark for peace or a dangerous springboard for war."

The supreme commander of the Allied powers, in a summary of the first year of the occupation of Japan, asked, "which concept will prevail over these islands, which now are being redesigned in the aftermath of war?"

The answer to that question, he said, "profoundly affects the destiny of all men and the future course of all civilization."

In a strongly worded statement which reflected his well-known but seldom impressed concern over the strife between the two ideologies, MacArthur declared that a clash between democracy and communism in this country would be "no slight disadvantage to those who seek, as intended at Potsdam, the great middle course of democracy."

He warned:

"The Japanese, long regimented under a philosophy of the extreme conservative right, might prove easy prey to those seeking to impose a doctrine leading again to regimentation under the philosophy of the extreme radical left."

Democratic ideals "embodying the principles of right, justice and decency" will be the cornerstone of Japanese freedom, he said, "unless uprooted and suppressed by the inroads of some conflicting ideology which might negate individual freedom, destroy individual initiative and mock individual dignity."

Defeat meant for the Japanese the collapse of their faith—"disintegration of everything they had believed in, lived by and fought for," MacArthur went on. The arrival of the American combat soldier with his "fine sense of self-respect, self-confidence and self-control" showed the Japanese the fallacy of their fomer beliefs.

There ensued a "revolution of spirit" unparalleled in the social history of the world.

This new spirit, given encouragement and opportunity, could become "more deep-seated and lasting than the foundations upon which their false faith was built."

But, MacArthur added, "ideologies of extreme too often gain converts and support from true liberals misguided by slanted propaganda and catch phrases which hold as 'reactionary' all things which spring from the underlying concept of the past.

"Such propaganda seeks too often to exploit the knowledge common to all men that sociological and political changes from time to time are mandatory if we would keep our social system abreast of advance civilization."

MacArthur's statement, issued one year to the hour after his address at the surrender ceremony aboard the USS Missouri, said it "has been accomplished in spirit and much remains to be done."

The goal is great, MacArthur concluded, "for the strategic position of these Japanese islands renders them either a powerful bulwark for peace or a dangerous springboard for war."

Producing State Fair Winner's Hard Task, But Well Worth the Effort, Says Ganyard

By GEORGE B. GANYARD
County Extension Agent

"Bring in your four-year-old cows!" The ringmaster spoke into his microphone, and soon 10 black and white cows filed slowly into the arena. Moving a few steps, then pausing, then a few more steps in a great circle clockwise, around the judge, each man on the lead strap kept one eye on his animal, the other on the judge. The judge, squinting intently, scanned each cow as she passed for a first impression of her appearance. Then he lifted his hand and the circle stopped.

A flurry of activity began as the showmen strove to put each animal into position where she would show to advantage. This foot back a little, that one forward a bit, a slight pinch in that high spot in the back or a nudge in a sagging middle to get the top line straight; or maybe a struggle to keep a restless animal under control.

As the eye went around this circle comparing the animals it was abruptly halted by an unusual sight. Here was a beautiful big cow . . . standing as if rooted to the spot. And what a cow! Top straight as an arrow from tail to neck, clean and sharp at the withers with ribs springing full and deep to give enormous heart girth and great capacity, udder high attached and carried well forward, well balanced and roomy. Sixteen hundred pounds of dairy cow, yet with a quality and refinement seldom seen. In fact, it looked as though the true type model for the breed had walked onto the tan bark.

Then she became restless and for the first time the young man in white at the lead strap came into the picture as he quieted the cow.

* * *

Get Second Check.

The judge, having given each cow closer examination, motioned the circle forward again. Presently he signalled the quiet young man to pull his cow out of the circle and head the class. After they had all lined up side by side, the judge again went up and down the line checking his first impression. A few shifts were made, but always this quiet young man and his model cow remained at the top. Then the judge signalled his conclusion and the blue ribbon went to this team at the top.

Twice again during the day did this cow and her leader parade for comparison and twice again did they win top honors; once as senior champion and again as grand champion female of the show.

To the interested spectators, here was a beautiful cow; to the breed devotees, here was an unusually fine specimen of the breed. To people interested in youth, here was an event which occurs infrequently, but which might be approached more often if parents of boys and girls had larger vision.

* * *

Breeding Shows.

This boy started as a 4-H club boy with a good calf. As boy and calf progressed in age, the heifer was mated to a high class sire. The result was this animal which, as a four-year-old cow in the care of her young Future Farmer owner, had captured the State fair championship for the breed. Nor did she stop at appearing to be a good cow. She dropped a fine heifer calf and produced 419 pounds of butterfat in her first 305 day lactation period (that's two and a half times the production of the average Ohio dairy cow).

There are thousands of 4-H boys and girls with livestock projects in Ohio each year. There is only one female grand champion for each breed of livestock at the State fair. Obviously, the chance of producing a grand champion is slight for any one of these thousands of young folks.

Yet it would mean much to these youngsters if more parents had the vision to help them get foundation stock of good individuality from a good producing family upon which to lavish their time and affection.

The increased satisfaction would be priceless; the increased cash value of the project would be measurable. The quality and efficiency of livestock would be advanced more rapidly. These would be some of the dividends returned by a larger vision of the future.

2,900 OHIOANS SOUGHT BY ONG

Only World War II Veterans To Be Accepted Into New Organization.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio National Guard has set out to enlist 2,900 Ohioans in its air force.

Adj.-Gen. D. F. Pancoast, head of the ONG, said the program was part of a plan for establishing air fighter and bombardment groups in the various states.

Ohio will be part of the 11th army air force and with Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana will form the 55th wing of the organization.

The 55th will have three fighter groups—121st, 122nd and 123rd.

The 121st will be an all-Ohio unit with three fighter squadrons. Columbus and Dayton have been selected tentatively for location of two of the squadrons.

Each fighter squadron will be squipped with 25 planes, either P-47 Thunderbolts or P-51 Mustangs, and the bombardment squadron will man 16 A-26 Martin Marauders.

Each group headquarters also will be equipped with a C-47 Douglas Skytrain, two AT-6 Texans, four A-26 Marauders and two L-5 Liaison planes.

"We expect the whole wing to be in formation and operating by early spring," said Col. Lamont Saxton, senior air instructor supervising organization. Only men who served in World War II will be accepted in the new organization, Saxton said.

Art Club Party For Virginia Chew

Miss Virginia Chew was the honoree at a party given Saturday evening by the Thursday Art club at the home of Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer, 81 Rowland avenue, with Mrs. Arthur E. Courtney and Mrs. Kochenderfer as hostesses.

This follows a club custom of giving a party for daughters and daughters-in-law of members at the approach of their marriage, with a club gift to each. Mrs. C. C. Skiles, of Shelby, mother of Robert F. Skiles, the prospective bridegroom, was a guest.

Bridge provided the evening's diversion, with prizes going to Miss Chew and her mother, Mrs. Charles W. Chew.

Lausche, who has been attending the first post-war reunion of the division's veteran's association here.

Hal Boyle — Globe-Jotting

By JAMES D. WHITE
(For Hal Boyle)

House military affairs committee members touring the northwestern Pacific warn of "imminent danger of another Pearl Harbor."

They also express concern about Russia's intentions, and say American Pacific garrisons are inadequate to defend themselves.

This story comes today from Tokyo, where earlier this week an Associated Press dispatch said American occupation troops "may remain indefinitely in Japan to hold what is regarded here as the eastern anchor of a world-wide American line against the Soviet Union and Communism."

How much do we know about the military and strategic position of these two great powers in the Northwestern Pacific?

The map shows us that the U. S. commands Alaska, the Aleutian chain, southern Korea, has a small marine force in north China, and has left-over war bases south of Japan at such spots as Guam, Saipan, Okinawa and the Philippines.

Russia has Kamchatka, the area west of the Aleutians, the Kamchatka peninsula, the newly-occupied Kurile chain, north of Japan, the partially ice-bound ports of eastern Siberia, northern Korea and Dairen and Port Arthur in Manchuria.

The U. S. Pacific fleet far outweighs the negligible Soviet naval forces in the Far East, which up to the end of the war consisted largely of a few submarines although construction facilities for bigger ships had been developed at Konsomolsk in the maritime provinces.

On the other hand, Soviet land power in Siberia equally outweighs the reduced American ground force in the western Pacific. The house committee members note that the Soviet garrison in northern Korea is many times the size of the American force in southern Korea.

They also recall the mystery of what Russia has done with perhaps 750,000 Japanese troops captured in Manchuria last year. Would these troops fight for Russia some time?

Biggest questions hover in the air. In the realm of airpower is the question of guides missiles or long-range rockets, of which both sides are working.

Add to the guided missile the known potential of the atomic bomb and what has been told us of bacteriological warfare. We are said to be far ahead on the first weapon and presumably are so in respect to the latter.

It is from this situation that another Pearl Harbor would have to be calculated.

Army Orders 'Social Pass' For Frauleins

FRANKFURT, Germany —(AP) —Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters has ordered a "social pass" system for German girls in Frankfurt in an effort to clean its own backyard. Venereal disease is at an all-time high throughout American-occupied Germany.

"We want to see to it that the American soldiers in this headquarters associate with better class German girls," a headquarters spokesman said.

The social-pass system already is in effect in Nuernberg and other American centers. The Frankfurt command said German girls would be permitted in authorized clubs only if they met the following qualification:

1—Presented favorable or clean appearances.

2—Did not make false statements at the time they asked for passes.

3—Did not have undesirable political or social backgrounds.

4—Did not have criminal or venereal disease records.

5—Were not married.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL—

The pain from wounds suffered during the war forced Peter Harmuth of 3542 East Livingston avenue, Lorain, to leave his bus enroute to the Veterans Administration hospital at Akron and seek relief here Saturday. Called to the front of Max Diner, police found the veteran in great pain, unable to continue his journey, so they took him to General hospital where he was admitted for examination of flak wounds suffered in the European war theater.

2 CONGRESSMEN TALK AT ANNUAL MEET IN PARK

Legislators Discuss Rural Problems; Farmers Plan to Produce Own Sugar.

Despite threatening weather, approximately 4,000 persons thronged Mary Fate park in Plymouth yesterday to attend the fourth annual Farmers' picnic sponsored by the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest association.

Farmers from nearly 40 Ohio counties declared the day a holiday and took their families to the park for the party. Hundreds brought baskets and had a picnic dinner while others waited until afternoon to go to the picnic.

Speakers were Congressmen J. Harry McGregor of the 17th Ohio district and William Lemke of North Dakota. They discussed farm problems, farm legislation, and price control measures. Lemke has been active in opposition to government control of farm practices and prices.

H. H. Fackler, president of the association, said last night that farmers attending the picnic were interested in ways of producing their own sugar to increase the supply and discussed ways of boosting sugar production.

Plans were made for another picnic to be held next summer, Fackler said.

ROBBER GETS NYLON SUPPLY

Police Check on Four Thefts Reported in Mansfield Over Weekend.

Four thefts were reported to Mansfield police over the weekend with one Mansfielder reporting that his home had been burglarized while he was on vacation and ransacked for $313 worth of personal property, including a supply of nylon hose.

Upon his return from a week's vacation yesterday, Gordon Watson of 672 Manchester road found that his home had been entered through a second story porch door via a ladder taken from a new home under construction next door.

Watson told police that between 10 and 12 pair of nylon hose, eight pair of ladies' shoes, a string of pearls, a man's wrist watch and a lady's lapel watch, a bedspread, lady's bathrobe, and a chime clock had been stolen from his home, during his absence.

Fred Keller, proprietor of a used car lot at Fourth street and Ashland road, yesterday reported to police the theft of a black 1935 sedan from the lot between midnight Saturday and Sunday morning.

Another burglary was listed on police records when Mary A. Chelsky, 551 Lida street, reported to police the theft of her purse with $6.50 in cash from her home Sunday morning.

Still another theft was reported at the Pennsylvania railroad depot when railroader N. A. Weliver of Chicago told police that someone had taken his billfold and railroad pass from his pocket while he was sleeping on a bench awaiting his train early Sunday.

Mrs. Brandt Stricken At 72

Mrs. M. A. Brandt, 72, of 321 East First street, died Sunday morning at her home following a lingering illness.

Born in Crestline Feb. 4, 1874, she spent the greater part of her life in Mansfield and was a member of the First United Brethren church.

Surviving are her husband, one son, Walter J., Mansfield, and one daughter, Mrs. C. E. Hunter, wife of the Mansfield physician. Mr. and Mrs. Brandt had celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary last December.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Tuesday at 3:30 p. m., in charge of Rev. James L. Boyer of the First United Brethren church. Burial will be in the Crestline cemetery.

Iron Lung Fire Burns Patient

KANSAS CITY, Kas. —(AP)— A fire broke out in an iron lung at the University of Kansas hospital Sunday, and the infantile paralysis patient inside was seriously burned.

Army Repudiates Report of Communist Spy Ring.

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — The U. S. Army officially repudiated Sunday its own story of a Communist spy-ring, announcing the "Free Germany committee —it recently broke up at Stuttgart was a "purely local affair" with no evident Moscow connections

The only member of the German organization who will be prosecuted is its leader, Walter Kazmarek, and an army spokesman emphasized that Kazmarek's alleged espionage activities "appear to be solely individual."

This clarification of the confused case was given by a high ranking officer of the army's counter-intelligence branch who declined to be quoted by name although he spoke to correspondents in a news conference especially arranged by the army's public relations division

Nation's Coal Bill $430,000,000 More

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The nation's coal bill has gone up about $430,000,000 annually since last spring

A compilation today of price increases indicates an average of approximately 66 5 cents a ton in bituminous coal prices, and $1.29 in anthracite prices. The total cost increase figure comes from applying the various price boosts to bituminous production of about 540,000,000 tons and anthracite output of about 54,000,000. Most of the higher fuel bill was due to an increase in the pay of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers. Higher freight rates and a revision of retailers' margins, necessitated by the amended price control bill, also contributed

Tin Can House Sells At $5,000

TAMPA, Fla. —(AP)— A house built of tin cans and cement in 1939 was sold here for $5,000.

About 12,000 quart oil cans gathered from filling stations went into the house, said Fred J. Grace, builder and owner They were placed lengthwise and cemented together The exterior was finished with stucco and painted. The inside was plastered.

Grace said the one story 20 by 34 foot house is much cooler than the average dwelling because of the dead air space contained in the tin cans. In addition it is fireproof and takes a low insurance rate

Grace said he built the house more as a hobby than as an investment.

City Garbage-Ash Fee Lower Than Average

that while Mansfield's and East Cleveland's fees are about equal, Warren charges 75 cents for an ail-refuse collection service and Newark charges 75 cents just for garbage collection. A 50 cent fee is added at Newark for collection of ashes and cans, per month.

Steubenville's 91 cents a month fee provides only for garbage collection. The city sponsors no ash collection service.

At Middletown the fees range from 75 cents to $3 cents a month depending upon the type of service a customer desires. If rubbish and ashes are collected the fee climbs to the $3 cents mark.

Mansfield's 60-cent fee, while ostensibly for garbage collection only, actually helps pay for ash collections, too. The city makes no actual charge for ash collections. If you subscribe to the garbage service you get your ashes collected free.

In contrast to Mansfield, both East Cleveland and Warren require that ashes and rubbish be placed outside the home

Mansfield's Supt Strachan has declared that if customers were required to set ash containers just outside basements ash collection service could be considerably speeded up

At East Cleveland, customers are required to set ashes "anywhere on the property, outside of any building and on the ground level"

At Warren, a cart is used to collect garbage, ashes and rubbish from the rear of each house. The cart is then wheeled to the curb and the refuse dumped into trucks.

Supt Strachan argues that because garbage cans are required to be set outside the homes and ash cans are not, garbage collections are made ten times faster than ash collections.

He reports that crews here make upwards of 400 garbage collections per truck, per day. In comparison, ash crews make about 40 ash collections per truck, per day, he says.

East Cleveland, using four truck-trailer units and one, one and one-half ton truck, collects ashes twice a month. Mansfield, using four trucks, collects ashes about once every six weeks.

However, the city is now using two 1930 vintage trucks for collecting ashes and Vaughn's report to council will also recommend that new trucks be purchased in order to improve that service.

East Cleveland uses seven horse-drawn wagons for its garbage collection, according to the N-J survey It collects garbage twice a week. Mansfield, using three modern trucks, collects garbage about once a week

East Cleveland has 13,000 garbage customers; Mansfield has about 7,500 garbage customers Steubenville uses five trucks and collects garbage from 7,000 customers once a week.

Mansfield has 22 men collecting garbage and ashes; East Cleveland has 25 and Steubenville, 14. Monthly wages for Mansfield's collectors compare favorably with those of East Cleveland, Warren and Steubenville.

Mansfield's collectors are paid from $187.50 to $190; East Cleveland's "about $200," Warren's from $185 to $200 and Steubenville's from $173 to $186.

Mansfield and Steubenville are the only two cities included in the six-city survey which have a municipally operated collection system based on a fixed fee.

East Cleveland's is paid for through taxation while refuse at Warren, Middletown and Newark is collected on a contract basis by private firms.

East Cleveland, with its 13,000 customers for each service—garbage and refuse collections—pays about $88,300 a year for the service

Mansfield, with it's approximately 7,500 customers for each service spent $65,927 in 1945 to provide refuse collection service and received $54,285 in fees. The balance of the costs had to be subsidized from other funds.

PILES ARE NEVER "MILD"
DANGER IN NEGLECT
No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.
Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.
Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.
Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

PLEA FOR PEACE BASED ON TRADE SENT TO STALIN

Nelson In Letter Urges U. S. Businessmen Study Russian Needs.

By STERLING F. GREENE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Donald M. Nelson, wartime chief of production in the United States, has sent Marshal Stalin a personal plea for peace based on trade and a "more complete expression of policies and objectives" between this country and Russia.

Nelson, now planning a network of permanent stand-by armament facilities at President Truman's request, made the appeal in a letter to Stalin. The communication is embodied in Nelson's book the "Arsenal of Democracy", soon to be published. Nelson authorized release of the letter.

He wrote it as a hypothetical letter, then decided actually to send it. It was dispatched through the Russian embassy more than a week ago. No reply has been received.

The former war production board chairman proposed that a commission of American businessmen go to Russia—an idea he discussed with Stalin on a wartime visit to Moscow—study Soviet needs, plan with Russian agents a method of payment by barter if necessary, and develop trade, "on an unprecedented scale."

His proposal, not officially announced at the time, was based in part on the replenishment of war-depleted American stocks of some important raw materials, out of Russian surplus.

Harking back to a conversation with Stalin at the Kremlin, Nelson recalled:

"I think that we shared the conviction that nothing could be more catastrophic than a conflict between the only two great powers which had never fought each other—the conviction that the destiny of the human race itself depended upon a continuation of the friendship and cooperation of the Soviet union and the United States."

Nelson told the marshal that Americans do not understand the aims of Soviet policy and "suspect that those objectives have not been stated frankly. I can believe that the Soviet sometimes has the same feeling about our policy and objectives." Misunderstandings might be eliminated by greater frankness on the part of both nations, he suggested.

"We'll learn to know each other better while improving the prosperity of both nations," Nelson's letter went on. "The differences in our political systems," he added, "provide no rational cause for unfriendliness. We have no desire to change your system; we do not believe that you want to change ours."

'Keep Active; Don't Get Rusty,' Is Advice of Ohio Brass Workers Who Have Been on the Job for Half a Century

W. E. Wendland . . . with O-B 55 years.

By ALVIN PREYER

"Take it easy—be moderate in all things. Keep active so that you don't get rusty."

These formulas for successful living have produced results for their authors, 79-year-old Eugene "Tommy" Meily, 131 Pleasant avenue, and William E. Wendland, 71, of 114 Marion avenue.

Co-workers, and long-time friends, these men share the honor of having accumulated over 50 years of service, with very few days off for illness, at the Ohio Brass company, Mansfield born and reared, Meily went to work for the company in 1888, and Wendland in 1891.

"One of the biggest events," in their lives, they related, was when together, as employes with the longest service, they occupied a place of honor on the platform during the presentation of an Army-Navy E award to their firm in January, 1944. During the ceremonies they were presented with "E" pins for their contribution to the war effort.

Meily worked in the pattern shop, as a mail carrier, and is now a watchman at the plant. Wendland had been a metal polisher until recently when he became an inspector.

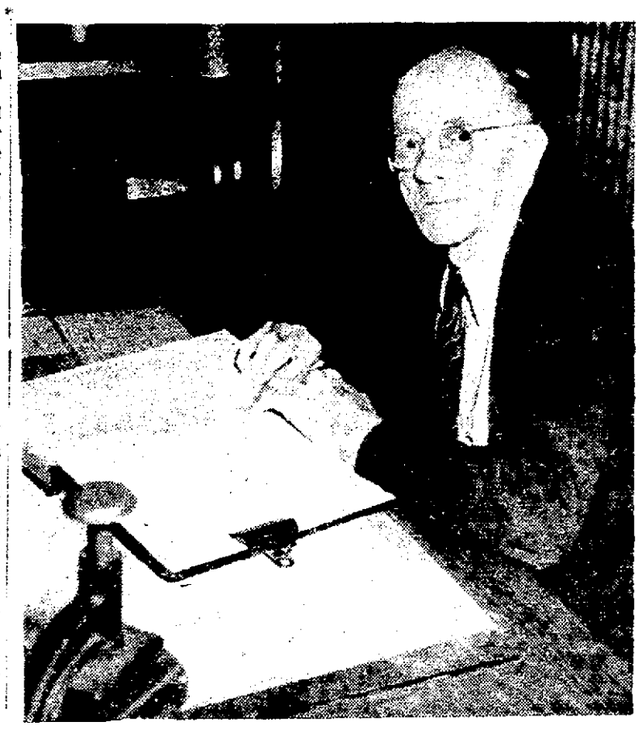
STARTED WHEN PLANT HAD 75 MEN

Both men related how they had "started when the company only employed about 75 men," and had watched its growth to a firm employing about 1,000 men in Mansfield, and with other factories and agents all over the world.

"The improvements in machinery which make it possible for a machine to do in a day what we used to do in a week" was related as the most vivid impression made on Meily and Wendland during their work at O-B.



"Tommy" Meily . . . on job 58 years.

Both are family men, Meily having a wife, two daughters and three grandchildren, all in Mansfield, while Wendland has a son in Mansfield. "At one time," Wendland said, "we had a family affair at the company with my dad, my three brothers and myself all at the plant."

Meily was very definite about his hobby. "My one hobby is baseball," he said. He watches the Cleveland Indians closely. Wendland was more expansive in stating that his hobbies were "hunting and fishing." "But," he added, "you can always find plenty to do around the house."

Meily is a member of the Knights of Pythias and Wendland has been a member of the Independent Order of Foresters since 1898.

WOMEN AT ISSUE

VFW Split In Two Camps On Membership Dispute.

BOSTON —(AP)— A red-hot fight over women—as fellow members — loomed today as one of the big issues confronting the 47th annual national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The die-hards want to keep the organization strictly "stag", as prescribed in the original charter of 1899 which admitted only "officers or enlisted men" of the army, navy or marine corps who had served "in any foreign war."

The younger members, fresh from World War II, want to admit nurses, WACS, SPARS, Women Marines or WAVES who saw service abroad. Many older veterans who had feminine relatives in the service are joining in demanding the admission of the women.
